Titan Rocket Heads for Orbit After Blastoff

Unmanned Capsule Lands Successfully As Part of Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The United States today fired the opening shot in its plan to develop a military man-in-space program by hurling an unmanned modified Gemini capsule over a scorching suborbital path. Then the same Air Force rocket orbited four satellites, one carrying a batch of satellite decoys.

The launching of the Gemini craft over a 33-minute ballistic course was the first test of hardware to be used in the Manned Orbiting Laboratory program, which expects its first manned flight in 1969. Goal of the program is to determine what military duties man can perform in space.

The 16-story-tall Titan 3 rocket, called a transtage, ignited and pitched down at an altitude of 127 miles to drill the Gemini back through the heat barrier of the atmosphere at 17,500 miles an hour.

'Romney for President' Gains Force

DETROIT (AP) — While Gov. George Romney refuses to look beyond next Tuesday's election — and discourages others from doing so — plans are afoot to start a drive for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination on his behalf, The Associated Press has learned.

And Romney and his political advisers are awaiting the country's reaction to his expected victory before making any plans or taking any concrete steps, sources close to the governor say.

"We will have to wait and see the size of his win and the prominence of his position — the kind of call he gets from citizens and national party leaders before we do anything new," one source said.

The Romney for president clubs that collapsed when Romney refused to encourage them in 1964 are about to try again.

George A. Zimmerman, a Dallas manufacturer who organized and headed the group of dedicated amateurs two years ago, said in a telephone interview Wednesday that he "will make an announcement shortly."

He declined to say what the announcement would be or when it would be made.

The organization claimed chapters in 20 states.

While not ruling out the possibility of a 1968 presidential drive, sources close to the governor insist that Romney "is really doing what he keeps telling the press he's doing — concentrating on this year's election."

Observers expect Romney to take off running toward 1968 in his nationally televised interview on "Meet the Press," scheduled for the Sunday following the election.

His role in a December meeting of the National Governors' Conference at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., a Republican governors meeting on an undetermined date, and out-of-state speaking engagements will figure as part of his campaign, some observers say.

President Issues Plea For Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, home from his historic mission to the Far East, has appealed for unity behind American policy in Viet Nam—for "where there is a deep division in a land, there is danger."

"Where there is unity in the land, there is strength," Johnson said in a homecoming speech Wednesday night at rainy Dulles International Airport.

Johnson was at the White House today, but not for long. He is expected to open a fast-paced, final round of campaigning Friday to urge the election of Democrats in next Tuesday's state and congressional balloting.

Johnson said America's task in Viet Nam is far from done, but he said Asians—the people closest to the arena of conflict—know that Communist aggression there must be defeated.

'Increased Efforts'

"They know that it is their duty to help the United States keep these fires from spreading," he said, "and that effort will be increased."

And he said "Those of us who met at Manila know the road may be long and difficult. We know that each of us will make mistakes. But if our countrymen will stand with us—if we will try to travel this difficult road together, I think that we will come out well at the end as America always has."

One critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policies was on hand to greet the President. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., listened in the rain as Johnson reported: "It has been my hope and my prayer since I took leave of you that this journey and the meeting at Manila would help move things faster in the right directions. History will decide. No new treaties were made. No new commitments were offered.

'More Hopeful'

"But I can tell you now that I return much more confident and much more hopeful than when I left."

Johnson chatted with Fulbright before he left for the White House, but the President's waiting helicopter drowned out much of their conversation.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he wasn't sure just what Johnson had said. "Anyway, I think he was just trying to be pleasant."

Democrats had done their best to turn out a big crowd at soldier who played dead during the Communist ambush which killed the other seven members of his patrol south of the Korean demilitarized zone Wednesday.

"After it was over," said Pfc. David E. Bibee, of Ringghold, Va., "I crawled over to my buddy, there was nothing I could do for him He was sucking blood. I started praying for him, but there was nothing I could do. We just didn't have a chance. They seemed to come from behind. The only thing I could make out was that there were at least six of them."

Border Incident Was Just Due To Johnson Visit, Officials Say

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Despite North Korean attacks in which 25 South Koreans and six Americans have been killed in the past two weeks, U.S. officers said today they do not think the Communists are building up to major hostilities along the armistice line between North and South Korea.

South Korean officials said they believe the ambush of an American patrol early Wednesday, in which six American soldiers and a South Korean were killed and a seventh American was wounded, was timed to embarrass the Seoul government during Johnson's visit.

The South Koreans pointed out that the attack eight hours before the President left for home was only the second serious incident in the American sector of the Korean front since the 1953 armistice.

Second Attack

A second North Korean attack in the closing hours of the President's visit, belatedly disclosed today, occurred three hours after the ambush and 40 miles to the east.

The South Korean army said infiltrators believed to be North Korean army regulars fired on a South Korean post. The South Koreans returned the fire, killing one of the infiltrators, and pursued the attackers. In the chase, a South Korean mine was exploded, killing two South Korean captains, and a South Ko-

Weighted Scales, High Interest

Hearing Reveals Good Reason for Meat Profits

KENOSHA (AP) — A former manager for a meat freezer chain says the firm would charge customers interest rates of up to 20 per cent depending on whether the patron complained about the rates.

Paul L. Kielbasa of Racine, testifying Wednesday at a U.S. Department of Agriculture hearing concerning meat sales practices, said some sales methods allowed him to sell "the same piece of meat 10 times in one day."

The hearing began Monday on a USDA complaint that Bruhn Service Co. of Elkhorn, Neb., and some of its outlets violated the Packers and Stockyards Act in advertising and sales activities.

Kielbasa, manager of a Bruhn outlet at Bristol prior to the outlet's sale to interests not connected with Bruhn, said a customer was offered time - payment terms for purchases with interest rates running to 20 per cent.

Four Marines Perish in Fire In California

Deaths Boost Two-Day Toll In State to 14

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a veteran firefighter—sobbing in recollection and grimacing in pain—described how 10 of his men were killed, disaster struck again.

Four young Marines perished Wednesday fighting one of many brush fires kindled in low humidity and driven by seasonal searing desert winds. The blazes were scattered across a 100-mile swath of Southern California.

Tuesday, 10 U.S. Forest Service men — specialists in attacking the most vicious fires—died in another inferno.

An unexpected gust of wind caused both disasters.

Wall of Flame

The Marines were on high ground overlooking a canyon called Piedra de Lumbre—Rock of Fire—at Camp Pendleton 80 miles south of Los Angeles.

Three hundred men controlled the fire, one of several which scorched 5,000 acres of harsh, brown land on the base.

Conservative Vs. Liberal

Byrnes, Kagen Allow A Choice

BY JOHN DOYLE
Post Crescent News Service

"Don't worry, John, you'll win two to one."

"Keep at it, Doc, you're gaining."

These two statements spoken by partisans in the campaign for congressmen for the 8th district exemplify the atmosphere of the coming election.

The John mentioned above is John W Byrnes, veteran Republican, seeking his 12th term in the House. The Doc referred to is Dr. Marvin Kagen, Appleton physician, the Democrat seeking to end Byrnes' long stay in the nation's capital.

Byrnes, a fiscal conservative, and Dr. Kagen, a liberal, give the voters a real choice.

Although they differ on most issues, the most glaring divergence of views is that of the nation's fiscal status.

Loss of Needed Money

From the start, when he first announced his candidacy, Dr. Kagen has been preaching that Byrnes' conservatism has continually cost the district needed money. Byrnes—as he has advocated since almost his first day on Capitol Hill—has chastised the government, and Democrats in particular, for reckless spending.

Dr. Marvin S. Kagen

At the outset of the campaign, Dr. Kagen was given little chance of upsetting the veteran Green Bay lawmaker. He still is the darkhorse, but by months of intensive touring of the district has come on fast.

Byrnes, held in Washington until two weeks ago when the 89th Congress finally adjourned, has a full schedule from morning until night to make up for lost time.

Ten days ago, this writer spent a full day with each candidate. The day was chosen at random but neither could be considered "routine."

Byrnes' day — like Dr. Kagen's — began before sunrise. He opened it with a talk to members of the Brown County GOP men's club during breakfast.

Heard It Before

The most notable difference in the atmosphere of the day was that Byrnes was "renewing" old acquaintances, while Dr. Kagen was making new ones.

The people Byrnes met that day had met him before. They had heard his scathing attacks on federal spending. They had heard him link his Democratic opponent with the administration and its faults. But they like it just the same.

During breakfast and again at lunch in a Marinette supper club, Byrnes probably didn't pick up a single vote — they were his to start with.

In the three short weeks he had prior to the election, Byrnes has appeared mainly before

SAM Site Destroyed

Air Blows Against North Stepped Up

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American air blows against North Viet Nam surged upward Wednesday for the second straight day with the weather again clear over Communist targets, the U.S. Command said today.

No large-scale fighting was reported on the ground in South Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman also disclosed that a North Vietnamese gun battery exchanged fire with a U.S. destroyer running in international waters nine days ago. The announcement said the American vessel was on routine patrol when fired upon.

In the air war, Navy, Marine and Air Force fliers pounded Communist surface-to-air missile sites, radar installations, communications links, storage and staging areas in the Communist North for a total of 165 missions, 10 short of the war's record.

Partial Clearing

A thick cloud cover and heavy overcast had obscured targets for several days before a partial clearing on Tuesday permitted 122 missions.

Air Force pilots reported a SAM site 33 miles northwest of Dong Hoi "appeared to be completely devastated" after day and night bombing. Three missiles were reported destroyed, while four launchers and other equipment in the area were destroyed or damaged.

Skyhawk jets from the carrier Constellation hit a North Vietnamese patrol boat support facility 70 miles southeast of Haiphong and damaged a defending gun position, a pier and storage buildings, pilots reported.

No Exchange

Pilots reported spotting three Communist jets northwest of Hanoi but said none approached closer than three miles and there was no exchange of fire.

The hardest ground fighting in the South was reported northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border, where units of the 196th U.S. Light Infantry said

Week-Old Cabinet Crisis

Erhard Would Quit if It Would Help, He Claims

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard today began looking for a majority in Parliament to support a new government but the task appeared almost hopeless as long as he stayed in office.

Beset by rising opposition in his own Christian Democratic party and a 1967 budget deficit of about $1 billion, Erhard said Wednesday he would quit if necessary to resolve West Germany's week-old cabinet crisis.

Erhard was thought to consider Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder the man most likely to carry on his pro-American policies as his successor. But a strong group of Christian Democratic leaders, led by former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, favors closer relations with French President Charles de Gaulle. One of the group is former Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss, 51, who is believed almost certain to return to an important cabinet post.

Party Maneuvering

Erhard reports Tuesday to his party's members in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament. Until then, leaders of the Christian Democrats, Socialists and Free Democrats will be maneuvering for positions in the new cabinet.

Erhard met with Christian Democratic leaders for three hours Wednesday and with the party's caucus for an hour and a half.

Although he had previously insisted that he would stay on as chancellor, he said he would not allow moves toward a new government to founder "because of my person." But he said he wants, as party chairman, a full part in negotiations to determine the new government and its policies.

Delaware Angered By Supreme Court In Electoral Suit

State Attorney General Accuses Tribunal of Violating Constitution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state of Delaware fired an angry blast at the Supreme Court today for refusing to hear a suit challenging the electoral college system.

In effect, Delaware Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson accused the court of violating the U.S. Constitution.

The court is required by the Constitution to settle disputes between the states, Buckson told the justices, and its refusal to give Delaware a hearing denies the state "due process of law in violation of the Fifth Amendment."

Last summer, while the court was in recess, Delaware asked permission to file its suit challenging the constitutionality of the "winner take all" electoral system. Under this procedure all of a state's electoral votes are cast, as a unit, for the presidential nominee who received a plurality of the popular votes in the state.

Though neither the Constitution nor federal law requires this system, it is in use in all the states and the District of Columbia.

Delaware claimed the procedure discriminates against voters in smaller states by making their votes less meaningful than those of voters in the larger states.

Sued Other States

It sued the 49 other states and the district. Twelve states eventually lined up with Delaware while New York asked the court to reject the challenge.

This the court did on Oct. 17, giving no explanation

Today, Buckson petitioned the court for reconsideration. He said "failure of the court to assign reasons for its action places 13 states and their citizens in a legal limbo, and fosters confusion.

"The court in its recent 'voting rights cases' has opened the door and raised the expectation in the hearts and minds of the citizens of each of the states that they may seek vindication in the courts of all their voting rights and their rights to political equality."

Federal law, Buckson said, gives the court "discretionary" power over the usual sort of appeal But the court's jurisdiction in suits between the states, he said, "is made mandatory by the Constitution"

Here he quoted John Marshall the fourth chief justice of the United States, saying "with regard to suits between the states" in an 1821 case: "If these be the parties, it is entirely unimportant what may be the subject of controversy. Be it what it may, these parties have a constitutional right to come into the courts of the union

The 12 states which had asked to be heard alongside Delaware were South Dakota, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Utah, Wyoming, Florida Kentucky, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Kansas and West Virginia.

See 'Don't Change Horses' Claim

Republicans Draft Rebuttal to 'Blitz' Expected From President Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are drafting a rebuttal for any intimation by President Johnson that Democratic election victories might deter the Communists from continuing the Viet Nam fighting

With just time to catch his breath on his return from his trip to the Far East, Johnson is expected to strike out Friday on a four-day sweep of a dozen or more states, campaigning for Democratic candidates

It would only be natural for him to report on what he considers the accomplishment of Manila conference and his visits in other Asian countries. But Republicans are alerted for what former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said may be a "Johnson blitz." Nixon told newsmen Wednesday "I predict the Johnson blitz will be a bust."

"Unity in the Land"

Nobody can forecast what tack the President will take in discussing the problem of Viet Nam But reporters accompanying him wrote from Bangkok the President felt that if the Democrats made a good showing in next Tuesday's congressional balloting the Communists might interpret this as indicating national support for his Viet Nam policies and be less inclined to think the United States would tire of the war and pull out

When he returned Wednesday night, Johnson appealed for "unity in the land" to travel successfully a long, difficult road to an honorable peace in Viet Nam.

Almost as the President spoke, the American Broadcasting Co. said in New York a poll it had taken showed that popular support for Johnson's Viet Nam policies jumped eight points between August and late October.

30 Per Cent Opposed

The network said 63 per cent of respondents now thought Johnson was doing an "excellent" or "pretty good" job in Viet Nam. Thirty one per cent called his job "not too good" or "poor."

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said in an interview if the President bases his appeal for the election of Democrats on any contention that this will change Communist thinking, it will be disputed—and quickly.

In another political development today, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, disowned a controversial GOP campaign film Democrats have called unfair.

Revised Version

Morton passed the word through field director Victor A. Johnston that his group will decline to contribute the $15,000 assigned as its share of the cost if the film is shown on the National Broadcasting Co. as scheduled Sunday.

Ford said he had not heard of Morton's objections But he said he is confident that a revised version of the film, entitled "What's Going On Here," will be broadcast on schedule.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey complained to the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, a private group set up to police national campaigns, that the film contained "highly distorted and misleading" matter.

It was reported the original version opened with a shot of coffins arriving home with Vietnamese war dead, and contained scenes of student riots and racial disorders.

Farm Laborer Charged With Threat on LBJ

SAN ANTONIO, Tex (AP) — A part-time farm laborer who lives in an unfurnished, abandoned house has been charged with threatening to kill President Johnson

A spokesman for the Secret Service said Emmanuel Magdalene, 48, was jailed Wednesday in lieu of $25,000 bond

Officers said the man telephoned the FBI on Oct. 17 and said he had a gun and was going to shoot the President.

Missing Blind Man Case Still Unsolved

By A.F. MAHAN . . .

DETROIT (AP) — Snow was pelting down, the thermometer stood at freezing, and the woman said: "We've not had a word I was just thinking what Thanksgiving will be this year for my daughter. There's no heat in the house. The furnace has been out since June, and the hot water heater isn't working now, either."

The woman speaking was Corenne Reetz. The daughter is partially blind, Mrs Gerald E. Henke, 30, of suburban Southfield, whose blind, piano tuner - husband vanished last March 4

In FBI Files

Henke's disappearance still is high on the "unsolved" list of suburban Southfield police, and the Detroit FBI office maintains an active missing persons file on him.

Police say they've followed more than a hundred leads — some from as far away as Washington, Mexico and Kentucky — without uncovering a trace.

A nationwide Associated Press story about the missing man moved 12 days after he vanished It was accompanied by a photograph, which showed the 6-foot-2½, Henke's outstanding characteristics, a widow's peak in his brown hair and a depression over his right temple.

Receives Welfare

Mrs. Reetz, a Detroiter now living with her daughter, says Mrs Henke receives $44 a month from the Oakland County Welfare Department, which also is keeping up the monthly payments on the white, brickfaced home.

Henke, 31, an expert piano tuner, was reported to have been carrying between $200 and $500 when he vanished en route to a Detroit client

On that day, his wife says he told her in a telephone call from Detroit "I love you, don't worry about me." She adds steadfastly: "He would not leave me."

Term Bacteria In Dry Milk Not Serious

Borden 'Starlac' Called From Dealers Throughout Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical experts say discovery of salmonella bacteria in samples of Borden's "Starlac" dry milk is no cause for alarm.

The infection of the digestive tract caused by the organism is seldom serious, said Dr. Albert Martin, chief of the salmonella unit at the communicable disease unit in Atlanta, Ga.

Martin commented Wednesday night after the Food and Drug Administration announced all stocks of the Borden Food Co. nonfat dry milk product were being recalled from distributors and stores across the nation.

Reimbursements Promised

The company notified all distribution points to request return of all stocks of Starlac, officials said, and has arranged to make reimbursements for packages returned to stores by customers.

An FDA spokesman, asked to pinpoint where samples containing the organism had been found, said persons anywhere in the nation who have Starlac in their homes "might well be advised to return it."

Can Become Serious

The most common medical effect of salmonella is an infection which results in stomach pains, diarrhea, vomiting and often fever. Although the victim is quite uncomfortable for two or three days, the communicable disease expert said, the case usually is relatively mild and is treated at home.

Occasionally, Martin said, "among people very susceptible — such as children and older adults — it can become serious." Deaths have been caused by it, he added, but they are infrequent.

In New York, a Borden spokesman said, "We have no idea how many cases of the product have gone out." He said Borden has marketed the product since 1939.

The plant where it now is produced, in Dixon, Ill., has been closed, he said. But he added that production methods used by the company in no way contributed to the infection of the product by the organism.

Power Officials Say Another Big Blackout Is Virtually Impossible

TORONTO (AP) — Improvements to North America's power system are making a recurrence of the Big Blackout a year ago virtually impossible, the chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission says.

George Cathercole told a news conference Wednesday alterations to the system are expected to make the possibility of such a widespread blackout "about as impossible as anything can be impossible."

The blackout Nov. 9 extended from northern Ontario to Florida and from the Atlantic Coast to the United States Midwest. About 35 million persons, including those in the New York metropolitan area, were without power for periods ranging from one to 12 hours.

Finish Detailed Study

Since then Ontario Hydro and the 21 other utilities involved in the Canada-U.S. eastern power grid have completed a detailed study of the blackout at a cost of several million dollars.

Harold Smith, chief engineer of Ontario Hydro, said the blackout occurred after a minor adjustment to a transformer at the Sir Adam Beck plant at Niagara Falls, Ont., caused an alteration of the character of the current flowing through the plant.

The change tripped a relay which shut off one power line. Power was immediately rerouted to the four other lines serving Ontario, overloading them and tripping their relays as well.

This sequence, which took place in one-tenth of a second, blacked out most of the province.

Switched to U.S.

At the same time, the power that had been flowing through lines serving Ontario, was switched automatically into lines leading into the United States. Until the blackout, Ontario had been buying power from the United States. Now, it was suddenly sending a massive surge of power into the American system, which caused a shutdown on U S. power lines before the relays at the border stopped it. The surge spread in a chain reaction throughout the U.S. network.

Smith said that as a result of studies by the Northeast Power Coordinating Council established last January, additional relays have been built into the power grid and their settings have been adjusted.

He said if the relays on the Ontario lines had been set to trip at at a higher power setting, the trouble would never have occurred and if the relays on the connector lines to the United States had tripped sooner, the power surge would never have entered the U S system.

Protest Pay Talks

Police on 'Sick Call' Strike in Pontiac, Mich.

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A mounting sick-call roster, called a strike by Mayor William H Taylor Jr., threatened to limit police protection today in this southeastern Michigan industrial city of 85,000.

The wave of sick calls, reportedly a protest of the city's failure to negotiate a police pay raise, reached 66 at today's midnight shift Nine patrolmen failed to report despite a plea by the president of the policemen's association to go back to work.

Sgt. Herbert C. Cooley, who heads the 104-member Pontiac Police Officers Association, broadcast his appeal over a radio station Wednesday night.

"If you are not really sick," he said, "it is of course your responsibility to the city to be on the job. It is the position of the association to exhaust all means of settlement before a strike"

Cooley said he would call a membership meeting later today to try to persuade the officers to return to work.

More than half of the city's 117 police officers have called in sick since the midnight shift Wednesday.

Ten of 12 men on Wednesday's afternoon shift — 3 to 11 p.m. — reported in sick and all nine men on today's midnight shift called in saying they were ill, said Police Capt. Harry Nye.

"All we have is three lieutenants, five sergeants and two rookies left over from the night shift," said Nye.

Taylor said the officers "are actually on strike. It's just a different procedure."

But Cooley said: "there is no strike"

At Madison School Tonight

LWV of Appleton Sponsors Candidates' Public Meeting

The candidates' meeting sponsored by the Appleton League of Women Voters will be held at 8 p.m. today at James Madison Junior High School. The event is open to the public with Mrs. R. Heath Reeves as moderator and Mrs. J. David Halloran as chairman of the voters service committee.

Candidates for the three assembly seats of Winnebago County have been invited to speak briefly at the session tonight as have the two candidates for sheriff, Robert Main, Democrat from Kaukauna, and Norbert J. Marx, Republican from Appleton.

Sheriff Candidates

In response to a LWV request, each of the sheriff candidates has issued a statement on issues.

The responses were:

Robert Main, Democrat, now a lieutenant in the Kaukauna police department:

1. What do you feel is the greatest need in Outagamie County for coping with juvenile delinquency problems in both the areas of prevention and of correction?

"This is a large problem. Juvenile crime, and juvenile criminals do exist. This is a fact of life in our country, our state, and our nation. My years of work in this field have shown that a need exists for a coordination of effort between all the agencies involved. Unless the church, school, home, welfare, social and law agencies work together, it will be impossible to solve the problem. In order to effectively prevent crime, lawmen must know the young people...know them personally, by name, have their confidence and respect. A lawman can gain this by demonstrating a willingness, confidence in, and respect for, our junior citizens. By working with other agencies, by going to the schools on lecture programs, by supervised recreational activities, by meeting and dealing with these young people, by maintaining the highest standards of personal integrity — a trained lawman will get to know the youth of his jurisdiction and will be able to effectively spot and head off potential trouble.

Main

"Therefore, the greatest single need at this time is for a well trained and staffed juvenile bureau within the sheriff's office. Prevention of crime is a basic responsibility of law enforcement. All lawmen are charged with preventing crimes by juveniles, as well as adults. The specific responsibilities of a juvenile bureau would be the control, proper handling, and processing of juvenile offenders, including the necessary followup efforts to prevent a recurrence of the crime."

2. Do you think the sheriff's department can satisfactorily handle detention problems with the existing facilities?

"The answer to this question hinges on your meaning of the word 'satisfactorily.' I feel that there is much room for improvement, but in this case the over all problem is larger than the sheriff's department. Both in, and outside, the county board there are groups and committees studying the many problems besetting that complex of buildings, tunnels, offices, parking lots and land that constitute our "courthouse." I feel certain that these groups have the intelligence to devise a plan for updating the courthouse facilities. And, I am sure the citizens of the county are progressive enough to follow through on their plan.

"In regard to the sheriff's department specifically, the various sheriffs have done the job with the facilities that are available. And if no new facilities are made available, the job will still continue to be done. This is not to say that the job is being done in the most efficient, nor economical way. It doesn't make sense to have the three classes of prisoners, maximum, medium, and minimum, all being confined in similar cells. Yet that is what is happening. The most pressing need as I see it, is for a jail facility that is both more secure in some respects, and less secure in other respects, than the one we have. Security costs money. And maximum security cells cost a lot of money. But they are needed to protect society from the dangerous criminal. Other prisoners, such as Huber law men, and most juveniles, do not need the extensive and expensive measures necessary with a maximum security cell."

Norbert J. Marx, Republican, now undersheriff of Outagamie County:

1. What do you feel is the greatest need in Outagamie County for coping with juvenile delinquency problems in both the areas of prevention and of correction?

"The field of delinquency prevention is open to everyone. Research and common sense tell us that the roots of delinquency, innumerable and complex, are imbedded in our whole culture. A preventive program therefore, holds unlimited possibilities and might be extended to every aspect of our social life. A coordinated, many sided attack must be launched if effective results are to follow. The correction phase for the most part requires the services of trained specialists and involves highly individualized treatment. Cooperation and coordination of efforts between law enforcement, courts, social agencies, parents and the public is imperative if we want to make any progress in dealing with this most important problem."

2. Do you think the sheriff's department can satisfactorily handle detention problems with the existing facilities?

"No. As the present sheriff has said, "the juvenile facilities in the Outagamie County jail at the present time are definitely inadequate to satisfactorily detain juveniles." With just one large room to detain juveniles in, you are placing a first offender with possibly a fifth or sixth time offender, thereby defeating the whole purpose of detention. Separate cells, well lighted, with facilities for studying is most necessary and serious thought should be given to non-secure facilities outside the jail for the juvenile who needs strict supervision but not necessarily secure detention.

For County Clerk

Candidates for county clerk, the only other county office for which there is a contest next Tuesday, were invited to submit biographical material by the LWV. Miss Mollie Pfeffer, Republican incumbent, did not return any information.

Mrs. Genevieve Andersen, 201 W. Ninth St., Kaukauna, Democratic candidate for county clerk, listed her education as through business college and her age as 67. Her experience consists of 42 years in the Kaukauna post office, eight as assistant postmaster.

Catholic School Teachers from Calumet County held a district meeting Thursday at Sacred Heart School, Sherwood, to exchange ideas and information. Standing around a tape recording of modern mathematics are, from left, Sister Leanne, St. John the Baptist School, St. John; Sister Verona, St. Mary, Hilbert; Sister Mary Leonard, Sacred Heart; Sister Natalie, St. Mary, Brillion, and Sister Theodorine, St. Mary Stockbridge. Y Teens Boost Red Feather Drive

Bill Foth and Kris Peotter were two of the area high school students who turned out for the Red Feather benefit dance Saturday evening at the YMCA Den. Ready to sell admissions is John Ehricke. At right, the students are shown as they enjoyed the music and dancing.

Members of the YMCA Den turned the tables Saturday evening and went out in support of the Red Feather Drive. Since the Y is one of the agencies receiving support from the United Fund, the teens decided this was one way to help the drive to success.

High school students paid regular admission prices for the evening of dancing and Den activity. A combo provided music.

All proceeds will be turned over to the campaign.

With Red Feather Posters indicating the purpose behind the party, Appleton teens supported the united fund effort that assists their programs all year round. Man's Goals, Values Affected By Scientific Accomplishments

"Science has changed and will continue to change man," said William H. Stone, Ph.D. professor of medical genetics at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He was the speaker Wednesday morning at the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Campus, at the first of five lectures concerned with Values of Contemporary Man. The series is part of the Continuing Education program.

In his presentation, "The Impact of Science on Values", Mr Stone explained how scientific thought and discovery affect anticipations, goals and values of individcals in today's society.

"Science and human values are interrelated in the modern world," said the speaker. "Actually, science is a way of describing reality. It does not have mystic qualities. A value is a desirable, useful characteristic, having an intrinsic worth. Truth is a fundamental value in the scientific world."

Life's Guideposts

Values, products of such things as knowledge and environment, are guideposts by which man should live if he wants a productive, harmonious life. He cannot live by out-dated values, and must not be afraid to change them.

Technological changes have greatly changed man's life in the last century. Before then, man was 'wrong' to question anything held sacred. Today his questions have uncovered many facts, shrinking the circle of faith He is allowed to teach and research new and revolutionary ideas. He searches for new facts endlessly.

As scence brings advancements and values change, man's laws must conform to them Mr. Stone stressed it is the responsibility of society to determine how these changes will be used, pointing out what fire can heat a home but also burn it down.

These explosions of knowledge are unifying scientific thoughts and advances throughout the world. Individuals no longer can live as an isolated units away from the rest of society. The world is shrinking because of modern communication and transportation. Individual man might easily lose his identity in such a fast-moving world if he hangs onto his old values. If he discards traditions, institutions and prejudices, he will find his way and "see where he fits in society." Now, more then ever, what he does affects his fellow man Activities can no longer be classified as "just local"

In a world greatly concerned with material wealth, many of man's values have failed him. Some values are two-pronged. For example, art may be appreciated because of its beauty or its material worth. It is up to man to determine which value he will live by.

Knowledge has given man the ability to create. Despite values, man is his own worst enemy. He alone has created destruction. Science has never caused a war. Hate and greed, two of man's misplaced values are responsible for such a tragedy.

Values Temporary

It is ironic, the speaker said, that man wants this variety and change, when he is so afraid of differences in his fellow man Prejudices, tradition and often ignorance overshadow society's values.

Values are temporary. They must be changed to fit society or will die an undignified death.

Daughter's Engagement Announced

NEENAH — A Feb. 4 wedding is planned by Miss Joan E. Fretschl, 1108 Melrose Court, and Thomas P. Reuss, Wauwatosa The announcement of their engagement has been made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Fretschl, 901 Harvey Ave., Oshkosh. Miss Fretschl is employed with American Can Co Her fiance is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where he affiliated with Alpha Delta Phi. He is a material analyst for Allis Chalmer Mfg. Co., West Allis.

'Bargain' Based on Correct Size, Style

Nothing is a bargain if you don't need it When shopping for clothing at a sale try to find qualities you want at the price you can or are willing to pay, suggests Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Sometimes sale items are shopworn, soiled or damaged If the article needs to be dry-cleaned or laundered before it can be used this raises the "bargain" price Sometimes a damaged garment may be mended satisfactorily at home.

Examine Garment

There is a difference between irregulars or seconds. Irregulars such as hosiery, may have imperfections of color, knit or size which probably will not affect the wearing quality. Seconds have flaws which may or may not show or affect wear. Examine the garment carefully before you buy.

Many times items are put on sale that are colors or styles which are not becoming to a majority of people. If the garment is becoming to you, it may be an excellent purchase.

Price Reductions

Price is sometimes reduced because of the size. Very small and large sizes most often remain on the racks. Sample garments or shoes are often included in this type sale.

Before you buy an item on sale notice the style If fashion trends are important to you, then ignore bargains that offer outdated styles.

Poor construction may be another reason for the sale price. A portion of the item may be cut wrong or seams may be ripping. If you sew you may be able to correct the flaws easily.

Price Protests Said to be Misguided

Co-Op Manager Tells Jaycees Labor Is Key Food Cost Factor

Increased labor costs and inflationary pressures are causing food prices to increase, Truman Torgeson, Manitowoc, manager of the Lake-to-Lake Dairy Co-operative, Kiel, told Appleton Jaycees and their outstanding young farmer program guests Tuesday night at Reetz's Supper Club.

Torgeson also is president of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Co-operatives, an advisery agency for the industry.

The number of middlemen providing extra services has gained substantially in recent years and the cost "has got to be recouped somewhere," Torgeson contended.

Unbalanced Budgets

Unbalanced federal budgets are directly related to continuing inflation, he said.

Torgeson said the housewives' protest was largely due to a misunderstanding of the problems. He said the boycott was of concern to agriculture, particularly when prices received by farmers for their products are increasing.

For many years, he said, the farmer had to accept prices which were not in line with the rest of the economy. He considered the present misunderstanding as unfortunate, stating the situation may boomerang.

Build Bridge

He said there is need for understanding between the consuming public and agriculture. He said prices farmers receive are still not on a level with the rest of the economy.

"The consumer today with his take home pay can buy more food than 15 to 20 years ago even at higher prices. Food is still the best buy. Groceries cost less than gas for the family car," he said.

If the situation becomes too harsh, he warned, a stepped up exodus from the farms may result and sharply reduce the number available to produce food. Black market conditions also could develop, he said.

Clintonville Budget Up But Tax Rate Holds at $32.50

Assessed Valuation Increase Helps Offset Hike; City Experts To Spend $1,098,484 in 1967

CLINTONVILLE — The city tax rate will hold at $32.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation if the proposed budget for 1967, read to the city council Tuesday night, is adopted without change.

Expenditures proposed for next year total $1,098,464 with revenue, other than property tax, estimated at $227,832. This leaves $870,632 to be raised by property tax. The proposed budget is up $82,262 over 1966.

The budget for the current year amounted to $1,016,202 with revenue other than property tax figured at $209,657, leaving $806,544 to be raised by property taxes.

The proposed levy is $64,088 higher than for the current year.

Base Increased

The 1967 assessed valuation of the city is $26,258,650 which represents a $1,557,980 tax base increase over 1966 when the assessed valuation was $24,700,670.

CESA Reading Program Starts At Clintonville

82 Elementary Pupils Given Vision, Hearing Tests

CLINTONVILLE — Eighty-two elementary children from the public and parochial schools here are participating in a remedial reading program which started Monday.

The program is offered by the Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) No. 8 via its mobile diagnostic unit.

Vision and hearing tests will be given to children of grades three and four, who are one year or more below grade level in reading and to those in five and six who are two years or more below grade level. They also will receive diagnostic reading tests by special personnel of the mobile laboratory to determine the causes of reading retardation.

After the children are screened by the two psychometrists (licensed testors) in the mobile unit and the technician who operates the reading eye camera and telebinocular, they are given a reading scales test. The test provides the remedial reading instructor with data on each child.

Parents will be notified if the tests reveal any apparent or possible problems in vision and hearing. It is hoped these deficiencies will be corrected before the child begins receiving instruction in remedial or corrective reading.

School Instruction

Children in the program will be instructed in their own school building by remedial reading instructors.

Mrs. Margaret Lindsay will be the instructor for children of the Clintonville schools.

Inservice training of reading teachers, led by Richard McDougal, has been conducted for 41 members of the Clintonville public and parochial school staffs since Sept. 12 as part of a 10-week program.

Valley Job Demand Surpasses Workers

Employment Office Reports Local Factories, Mills Seeking Help

The State Employment Service has reported an inadequate supply of workers to meet demands of employers in certain spots in the state, including the Appleton, Neenah and Menasha area.

Supply of laborers for local factories and paper mills is inadequate, the fall manpower report indicates.

Shortages of men in professional and technical fields and skilled trades and shortages of women in trade and service occupations are especially notable in the Fox Cities, according to the report.

"Demands are also high for experienced office workers and for entry level workers in local paper mills. Out-of-area recruiters have been able to attract local prospects."

The shortage of workers in the Fox River Valley is reflected throughout the state with manufacturing employers showing the greatest need. The drop in available labor supply is caused by withdrawal of students and summer workers from Wisconsin's labor force.

Employment in the state hit a record peak in September with a total of 1,760,000 workers, a total of 44,200 the lowest September figure since 1959.

According to the report, employers predict a slight reduction in employment totals during the next 60 days as canning plants end seasonal operations.

The employment service says shortages of job applicants in most occupational categories are also found in Fond du Lac and Oshkosh.

Additional Policeman

The $1,000 increase projected for protection of persons and property, is charged against the fire department for a new truck water tank. The $6,679 increase for the police department is the salary for an additional policeman for the eight-man force, which the police and fire commission recommended to work as a "swing-shift" man, also for merit raises and an increase in Wisconsin Retirement Fund for the police.

Under health and sanitation, $1,000 was added to the budget for garbage and refuse collections, bringing the total to $27,500.

Library expenditures are increased $3,402 to take care of any salary increases necessary to obtain a librarian.

Salary increases account for the principl increase in highways.

Indebtedness Decreases

Indebtedness shows a decrease of $15,043 as proposed for 1967 because a bond issue for storm sewers anticipated for 1966 wasn't completed and $10,000 for payment of principal and $4,000 for interest on that anticipated bond issue was included in last year's budget.

Under increases in unclassified, $9,000 is for the purchase of a new rescue unit and $800 toward equipment to cut weeds in the river, purchased in conjunction with area towns.

Council authorized City Clerk Lloyd Eggleston to have the proposed budget published and a public hearing date set for 8 p.m. Nov. 16 in the council room at city hall.

Mrs. Dean Connors, Left, president of the Chilton Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, goes over the meeting ritual with, from left, Mrs. Gilbert Sauer Jr., vice president of the Sixth District auxiliary; Mrs. Joseph Dimpfl, state president, and Mrs. Arnold Hertel, district president. The occasion was the unit's annual inspection. (Youngsteadt Photo)

the airport, in suburban Virginia, despite the intermittent rain.

About 2,000 people were on hand.

There were free bus rides to the airport, 28 miles from downtown Washington, and there was free parking for people who drove.

Federal agencies, among them the Departments of Labor and Welfare, circulated notices asking their employes to go to the airport.

Johnson said he returned with an impression of vitality in a new Asia—of massive poverty to fight but of "a spreading confidence that comes when men see before their eyes that progress is possible by their own efforts."

'Forgotten Front'

The President spoke, too, of the American fighting men he saw in South Viet Nam and Korea—and of the six men who died Tuesday in a Communist ambush on the "almost forgotten front of the 38th parallel" in Korea.

"We shall never let them down, nor their fighting comrades, nor the 15 million people of South Viet Nam, nor the hundreds of millions of Asians who are counting on us," Johnson said.

Titan Rocket Heads for Orbit After Blastoff

about 5,060 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

Planes and helicopters spotted the craft as it drifted downward under its 83-foot parachute.

They were overhead when the Gemini splashed into the water, landing very close to the aiming point.

A recovery ship sped to the scene.

The flight was the first test of hardware to be used in the Defense Department's Manned Orbiting Laboratory program. Main purpose was to see how well the heat shield—with a crew access hatch cut in it—could survive the re-entry temperatures.

After releasing the Gemini, the transtage pitched nose up and restarted its engine and drove a 38-foot canister toward an intended circular orbit 184 miles high.

Three separate satellites were to be ejected from spring-loaded launch tubes on the canister, acting as a "space bus."

Two of the satellites were to "talk" to each other in a satellite to satellite communications test that might have an important bearing on future military space communications systems.

The other ejectable satellite carried a classified Air Force payload.

Since the armistice, the U.N. Command has charged the North Koreans with 5,350 violations of the demilitarized zone. The Communists denied all but two minor ones and accused U N forces of 42.500 violations. The U.N. Command admitted 89.

Winter Hits Nation's East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather, with snow, gusty winds, and unseasonably low temperatures, has made an early and unwelcome arrival in wide areas in the eastern half of the nation.

An intense storm early today centered over Lake Erie, dumping snow over a six-state area from Tennessee to Michigan Heavy snow warnings continued, with from 3 to 6 inches indicated across the eastern and lower Great Lakes.

The early November storm left a blanket of snow up to 15 inches in central Kentucky and up to 10 inches covered sections in southeastern Tennessee, western Ohio and in Michigan's Upper Peninsula Smaller amounts were reported in other Midwest areas.

Stranded Drivers

Gale warnings were posted for most of the Great Lakes and the North Atlanta Coast.

Thousands of motorists were stranded in the snow belt, the most being reported in sections of western Ohio.

Several communities were hit by power failures.

In Detroit outgoing airplane flights were canceled Wednesday. Three main highways were closed by snow in Tennessee.

they killed 13 Viet Cong while suffering only light casualties themselves.

The end of Operation Shenandoah was announced. The 1st Brigade of the U.S. 1st Infantry began it Oct. 17 and has reported killing 97 Communists and destroying 11 base camps and 26 bunkers about 70 miles north of Saigon.

Naval Incident

In the belated report of the naval incident, a spokesman said the Communist battery which fired on the destroyer Mansfield was 25 miles north of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

The spokesman said the Mansfield and the destroyer Hanson were patrolling in the Gulf of Tonkin outside the three-mile territorial limit on the morning of Oct. 25. The Mansfield returned the fire with its five-inch gun and the Communist barrage stopped.

A short time later, the enemy firing resumed and again stopped after the destroyer fired back. No damage was reported to either American ship, and there was no assessment of damage to the enemy gun position.

Says Birchers Proud Of Their Membership

PHOENIX, Ariz (AP) — The national public relations director for the John Birch Society says it's "perfectly proper" to keep asking political candidates if they belong to the society.

"The members of The John Birch Society are proud of their membership and proud to say so," John Rousselot told the Phoenix Press Club Wednesday night.

Merlin Smith of Kansas City displays a $5,000 bill he took to city hall Wednesday to make a $10 water deposit. Irked because the city would not accept a check for the deposit—required to get the water turned on in his new home—Smith offered officials a choice: 1,000 pennies or the $5,000 bill. They took the pennies, and Mrs. Lillian Richardson, background, had to count them.

Stevens Point Graduate School Plan Okayed

Masters in Home Economics Approved; New Undergraduate Programs Included

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The creation of a master's degree program in home economics and undergraduate degree programs in Spanish and speech pathology and audiology at Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point have been approved by the state university system's governing board of regents.

The master's degree program, to be offered in 1967, is an outgrowth of a joint program now administered by the university in conjunction with the University of Wisconsin and Stout State University. Students now may take up to half of their credits necessary for a master of science-teaching degree at Stevens Point and continue their graduate studies at the UW or at Stout.

For many years the Stevens Point campus has been one of the state's prime producers of teachers of home economics, university officials pointed out. Emphasis in education has moved to the master's degree level, and very few of the state's teachers in the field have a master's degree, it was indicated. More teachers must be trained on the advanced level, they said.

In addition, many of the teachers affected by such a program will be married women unable to travel far to continue their education. By locating a graduate program at Stevens Point, it was pointed out, teachers could be served throughout the central, northern and northeastern parts of the state.

Modest enrollments are expected at first, and the staff of 10 now on the faculty is judged to be sufficient to handle the initial expansion stages of the program.

Study Correlation

The Spanish major, to be developed out of a minor program now offered will be available in September, 1967. It will be offered in a direct relationship to a program in Latin American studies now available.

In the three years since the first offering of a Spanish course enrollments have increased over two times, according to university officials. More than 200 students are enrolled at present.

There are indications of a need for additional Spanish teachers in the state, and the present faculty is expected to be sufficient in number and training to offer a major program they said.

The development of the undergraduate degree program in speech pathology and audiology is an outgrowth of a current "emphasis" now offered in the field, according to Stevens Point campus officials. The major will offer a two-track approach for students wishing to be certified in the field, and those desiring to work in the institution's School of Fine Arts cut it down," he said. "If he didn't, we would charge him 20 per cent."

A shortage of trained personnel exists in all aspects of the field, university spokesmen said.

If a customer insisted on buying the low - priced items, Kielbasa said, "we would make sure that he had 70 per cent waste, and it would cost him 70 cents a pound before we got through with him."

Another former employe, John E. Oseman Jr. of Kenosha, testified scales were occasionally weighted.

James E. Witt of Round Lake, Ill., another former employe, said weighted scales permitted cutting "maybe 700 or 750 pounds" of meat to fill an 800- or 900-pound order.

Sheppard Neighbor Testifies

By THOMAS G. REES

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — J. Suencer Houk returned to the witness stand today in the murder retrial of Samuel H. Sheppard after he testified what he went through as a close friend of the family when Marilyn Sheppard was murdered over 12 years ago.

Houk, is a former Bay Village mayor and was a neighbor of the Sheppards at the time Marilyn was bludgeoned to death July 4, 1954.

Under questioning by County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, Houk recounted the day Marilyn was found dead in her second-floor bedroom at the Sheppards' lake front home, three houses from where the Houks lived.

Houk said he was awakened about 5:45 a.m. by a telephone call from Sheppard.

Houk said he and his wife Esther were the first outsiders on the scene and arrived in five minutes.

Houk said Sheppard told him he had seen a man going out the door near the lake.

Five Persons Killed on State Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of three persons in a crash near Madison and two in a collision near Oconto have raised the Wisconsin highway fatality toll for the year to 924, compared with 846 on this date in 1965.

The toll was 911 on Nov. 3,1964, ord 1,059 traffic deaths.

Alan L. Fetterly, 22, and Arthur J Witha Jr., 18, both of rural Oconto, were killed Wednesday night in a two-car collision on Highway 41 six miles north of Oconto The two victims were riding in the same car. The driver was hospitalized with injuries

Three persons, including a child, died Wednesday in a three - car crash which Dane County authorities said resulted from a car having halted on Madison's West Belt Line Road waiting for another car to make a turn.

Michael J Googins, 23, a University of Wisconsin medical student, was killed when his car struck the halted car and veered into one driven by Mrs Craig A Malven, 28, Madison not seriously wounded, the black-haired youth told the story of the pitched battle — the first of two near the demarcation line in the last hours of President Johnson's visit to Korea — from a wheelchair in the 121st Evacuation Hospital 15 miles west of Seoul.

Mrs. Malven and her daughter, Joan, 5, died in the flaming wreckage.

Only Survivor

It was a terrible ordeal for a boy who had been in Korea just three weeks.

The attack came at 3:15 a.m., under a full moon, and a South Korean soldier accompanying the Americans was also killed. Bibee was the only survivor.

"They caught us off guard," he said.

"A grenade hit near me and rolled me down the hill. I was out for four or five seconds, then when I came to, they were picking up the equipment. One guy came over and shined a red light in my face and then he took off my watch. He almost pulled my arm off as he took the watch. I went back to the rear and tried to get to my grenades and rifle but I couldn't get to them. I didn't move when they took my watch off. I played dead. I don't reckon it lasted more than 15 or 20 minutes."

One of Bibee's doctors said he arrived at the hospital with numerous small punctures in his right leg and shoulder and upper left leg, apparently from grenade fragments.

He appeared "slightly confused," the doctor said. After minor surgery to remove some of the fragments he now is in "very good condition" though "fairly upset."

Share in Pentagon Spending

Small Firms Getting More Defense Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department, largest spending agency in the world, is spreading more of its business around. It's boosted the percentage of contracts to small business firms by one-third since 1962.

Pentagon figures showed today that small firms received $12.7 billion in contracts and subcontracts in fiscal year 1966, which ended last June 30. This was a jump of 43 per cent over 1965 and the highest total since the Defense Department began keeping records in 1951.

Measured another way, this means 28,000 small businesses around the nation shared in the increased defense spending this year, said Albert C. Lazure, director of the Pentagon's small business program.

'Strong Emphasis'

"We really started putting a strong emphasis on small businesses about four years ago," Lazure said in an interview.

The small business directorate subsequently was upgraded and now employs 661 persons across the nation who act as talent scouts for the Pentagon, trying to interest competent little firms to bid for major defense contracts.

"It's amazing the number of people who are afraid of government," Lazure said. To overcome these fears, he added, the Pentagon sponsors a series of clinics aimed at teaching operators of small firms that "things aren't as bad as they seem. A lot of red tape can be overcome."

Liberal Rules

Another major step, Lazure said, was Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's recent order liberalizing regulations and permitting advance payments to small businessmen "to get them over the hump."

Big business, which got the bulk of the $33 9 billion the Pentagon awarded to U.S. firms this year, does its share too.

The top 714 prime contractors all have their own versions of small business programs — prompted by the Defense Department's policy of putting clauses in all major contracts urging the big firms to subcontract wherever possible to small firms.

Aim in Municipalities

$3 Minimum Objective Of Government Union

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — An optimistic official of a state-wide organization of local government employe unions says it will "adjust its sights" and work for a $3 an hour minimum wage for all local government service workers in Wisconsin in 1967.

The statement came from Robert Oberbeck, one of the chief organizers of public employe unions in the state as exectuvie director of the growing Wisconsin State Council of Municipal Local Unions.

He told local labor organizations that there is now "no doubt that negotiated increases for public employe union members for 1967 will equal or exceed any annual increase granted in the last 15 years."

Positive Reaction

He said he made the forecast because "the public employer has reacted so strongly and in such a positive manner to the demands of public employe unions for dramatic and substantial increase in hourly and monthly wage rates."

Oberbeck recalled that for many years his organization has promoted the goal of a $2 an hour minimum wage in local government, whatever work is involved, and that it has now been virtually achieved with the result that "we can now adjust our sights."

In many instances the $3 an hour floor can be achieved merely by reducing the weekly work schedule of some employes, he said, noting that some local employment units remain on 50- and 45-hour-a-week schedules, in contrast to the 40 hour a week standard in most private employing organizations

Oberbeck said that the public employer has been "shocked" into a realization that the public employe in many instances ranks below those in private employment in economic rewards. An acute shortage of labor has aided the realization, he reported in a union publication.

Patrick Lucey says:

Car Insurance Rates are Highway Robbery

PATRICK LUCEY, the Democratic candidate for governor, has declared war on state-regulated automobile insurance companies. Their rates, Lucey said, constitute "highway robbery." Lucey stated that even with their fantastic premium demands, many companies refuse to insure drivers over 65, or make unfair cancellations. Lucey asserted that average car insurance rates have gone up by 11 to 23% in two years under the present governor. "It is the governor's task to probe these rate hikes," Lucey said.

Summit Trip Was Worth It, Johnson Feels

President Faced Grave Dangers During His Tour

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the morning of the day of his death President John F. Kennedy remarked it would be easy for anyone to shoot a president.

If it's easy for that to happen here, as it did, despite all this government's precautions, it would have been a cinch on President Johnson's just-finished trip to seven Asian and Pacific nations.

Millions turned out to see and greet him, making any hope of thorough precautions impossible and ridiculous, particularly when Johnson leaped out of his bullet-proof car to mingle with the crowds.

Was it Worth Risk

Side by side with the obvious questions about his trip — what did it accomplish? — is the other equally important and pertinent one: Was the trip worth the risk?

When he returned Wednesday night Johnson said "every hour and every mile was worth it." But he also added that there were no new treaties signed on the trip and he made no new commitments.

This means then that the accomplishments, whatever they were, were intangibles. But the risk was always real.

Created Goodwill

No doubt Johnson created fresh goodwill for this country in the places he visited, if only because he used that much time and effort out of his busy life to go there.

But, so far as can be seen, there was no need at all for creating more goodwill, when the risks involved are remembered, although Johnson himself is probably the only one who can say for sure whether the trips were necessary.

He did mention Wednesday night that "solid unity" was achieved at his Manila conference with the leaders of six other nations. If so, that's probably all that was achieved there.

The peace proposals which the conference made to North Viet Nam were ridiculed by the Communists. There is nothing to show the conference brought peace one step nearer.

No More Cautious

The memory of Kennedy's assassination does not seem to have made Johnson any more cautious about exposing himself to danger, either in this country or abroad. He has taken a lot of chances both places.

If he had been shot or killed on this trip there would have been hand-wringing and soul-searching and suggestions that all future presidents must be more careful.

All these factors add to the hazards for a president on the loose. It seems reasonable to believe Johnson owes it to himself and the country to avoid any unnecessary risks of assassination.

Sparks Self Destruction

By the same reasoning Johnson owes it to himself and the country not to be a party to his own self-destruction.

Johnson, 58 now, has had his own physical experience as a warning to be careful about his health. He had a heart attack 11 years ago. He has had kidney stones for years. He had a gallbladder operation last year.

He's overweight. And on much of this trip he was reported to be suffering from a cold and sore throat. It was a back-breaking, grinding trip. Carelessness about his health can have the same effect as an assassin's bullet.

Vike Harriers Set for MC Test Saturday

Sedgwick Paces Team; Davis Cites Steady Improvement

Steady improvement has been the story of the Lawrence University cross country team this season, and the hustling Viking runners are intent on writing their progress into the Midwest Conference script when it is drafted Saturday at Chicago's Washington Park.

Although the Lawrence harriers strode through what would have to be called a mediocre season to date, Coach Gene Davis is optimistic about Saturday's race.

"This is the hardest working team I've coached, and the improved performances each week verify this. In our last dual meet, nearly every one of the boys ran his best meet. We hope to get in fourth or fifth at the conference."

During the season, the Vikes victimized St. Olaf, Ripon, Lakeland and Knox, while falling to Stevens Point (the WSUC champ), Carleton and Grinnell (the MC's two top squads), Cornell and Oshkosh.

Paces Team

The Vikings will send a 7-man delegation to Chicago, including senior co-captains Steve Sedgwick and John Howe. Sedgwick has paced the team throughout the year and is expected to be among the top place winners Saturday.

Junior Wayne Draeger and sophomore Bill Giese have been the team's No. 2 and 3 men, respectively, and will be battling for high place finishes. Sophomores Mark Leonas, Vern Wilmot and Jon Huntman complete the conference club.

Since five of the top seven distance men are underclassmen, Davis envisions a conference contender next fall. Moreover, freshman Geoff Garrett, who won the Fox River Valley Conference title last year, and Tony Vaughan are both termed "outstanding" by Davis, and their showings in the conference's freshman telegraphic meet are expected to evidence their talents.

Minnesota Viking Defense Shows Great Improvement

Second Only To Packers in Recent Games

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Vikings have a defense . . . and the Packers better believe it.

The normal gospel before a Packer-Viking game has to do with the Vikings' explosive offense — and scrambling Fran Tarkenton, in particular.

But times have changed . . . Minnesota is sporting the hottest defense in the league — next to Green Bay's.

The Vikings allowed only 43 points in their last four games — an average of 10.7. The Packers, by comparison, gave up 31 for 7.7

In Green Bay, defense is a way of Packer life and as a reminder the Packers allowed fewer points than any team in the league last year — 224 for an average of 16.

In Minnesota, defense is the hope of Viking life — especially after 1965 when the Vikes allowed opponents 403 points (worst in the league) for an average of 28.7.

What's behind the Vikings' big defensive surge?

Bill McGrane, the Vikings' publicity chief, was asked that question, and he threw back some words uttered by Jim Marshall, the Minnesota defensive captain:

Pushed Them Back

The 49ers had a first down on our 26-yard line late in the game and we already had it won (38-3). At this stage of the game you can get tired but we pushed them back to their 46. You decide that you just don't want to let them score even though it doesn't make any difference in winning or losing.

"It's a matter of pride with us.

"We've had good defensive personnel the other years but we were never able to put it all together. Now we're making some big plays defensively and the guys are getting to like knowing that they're handling the opposition.

"You do a good job, you take pride in doing it . . . and you'll try that much harder the next time to do it again."

The 1965 Vikings gave up 53 touchdowns last year — 31 by passing. Both figures were league worsts. In addition, the Vikings caught opposing passers only 22 times for 192 yards — two more lows.

The Vikings have Carl Eller, Gary Larsen, Paul Dickson and Marshall in their front four. The

Bobcats Open League Season

Post 2-1 Victory Over Marquette In Exhibition Tilt

GREEN BAY — Pronouncing himself "very, very pleased" with the Green Bay Bobcats' performance in their 2-1 exhibition victory at Marquette Tuesday, Coach Pete Buchmann pointed out, "We needed a boost for this weekend, which I think is going to be a big test."

Buchmann had reference to the Bobcats' opening United States Hockey League series of the season, which will find them opposing the powerful United States Nationals in the Brown County Veterans Arena Friday and Saturday nights.

Friday night's game will start at 8:30 p.m., a half hour later than usual, while Saturday's first faceoff is scheduled at 8.

The victory at Marquette, where the Bobcats have had their problems in recent seasons, was particularly satisfying for more than one reason, Buchmann noted. "It was my first win as coach, of course," said the former Michigan Tech captain, who has succeeded John Mayasich at the controls, "and the fellows also played an absolutely superb game . . . It was an amazingly well played game for this stage of the season."

Commenting on the contributions of several newcomers, Buchmann added, "Dennis Huculac (late of Michigan Tech) looked very, very well at defense. In fact, our two defensive pairs (Huculac and Tony Bukovich, and Mayasich and Gerry Frenette) were just superb. They played like they've been playing together all their lives."

Pro Football Notes

Expect New Orleans To Become Member Of Western Division

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Look for the New Orleans club to become a member of the Western Conference in the National Football League.

The East had its pick last time and took the Atlanta Falcons. Now it's the West's turn. With those 82,500 seats in the Sugar Bowl and red hot interest in the new entry, the decision should be easy.

Nobody knows exactly how they will stock the New Orleans team. The merger of the NFL and the American Football League and the common draft in January may not permit the new entry the same breaks Atlanta got.

When the falcons participated in the NFL draft last year they had two picks on each of the first five rounds, including the No. 1 over-all selection.

Tommy Nobis, the Texas linebacker, was the No. 1 choice. Apparently he was worth it. Norb Hecker, the Falcons' coach, said he should be the rookie of the year.

"He shouldn't be overlooked as the best rookie just because we are not winning," said Hecker, whose falcons are 0-8.

When the Falcons were stocked last February, the NFL used the 40-man rosters of opening day as a base. Each team was permitted to freeze 29 of the 40. After the Falcons took one from the 11-man list, each team was permitted to freeze two more players. Then the Falcons were free to take two from the remaining eight.

The 42 men, three from each club, and the rookies from the draft formed the basis of the Falcons. The No. 20 draft, defensive back Bob Riggle of Penn State turned out to be one of the best.

If Madison Square Garden wants a heavyweight bout, how about Greg Larson, 6-foot-3, 250, vs. Jim Moran, 6-5, 270?

The New York Giants mixed it up twice in a practice this week following a tough scrimmage. Larson's job at centers puts him opposite Moran, a defensive tackle, in workouts.

You can expect more Monday night games in the NFL after the high television ratings for the Oct. 31 game between St. Louis and Chicago.

The TV doubleheader next Sunday will be the regular area game, followed by Minnesota-Green Bay.

Thanksgiving will be a special treat, with San Francisco at Detroit at noon.

Allen Brown, Vince Lombardi's hope as the tight end of the future, is lost to Green Bay for the season because of leg surgery . . . George Izo, former Notre Dame quarterback, got the axe again when Pittsburgh put him on waivers. Izo has been with four pro clubs . . . San Francisco may start Kay McFarland at split end Sunday against Los Angeles because Dave Parks is battered and bruised . . . The Cards and Bears hardly have time to get over the tough game Monday night before they swing back into action Sunday — the Cards at New York, the Bears gainst Detroit. . . Otto Graham used Charley Taylor at split end last week against Philadelphia . . . Vikings playing three rookies on offensive unit, halfback Jim Lindsey, tackle Doug Davis, guard Jim Vellone, plus linebacker Don Hansen and corner back Mike Fitzgerald on defense.

Purdue '11' Respects Boyajian's Passing

Mollenkopf Terms UW 'Improved'

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The Purdue Boilermakers, who might be tempted to think that the rest of the road to the Rose Bowl is downhill, do not think of Wisconsin as simply a sign post, Coach Jack Mollenkoph says.

Badger quarterback John Boyajian, he said, is a chief reason for Purdue's refusal to consider it can make an easy conquest of Wisconsin, with which the Boilermakers tangle Saturday in Madison.

"Wisconsin is an improving team," Mollenkopf said Wednesday.

And Boyajian, from Hammond, Ind., "is a fine passer who did well as a sophomore against us last year," the coach said.

Boyajian completed eight of nine passes against Purdue a week before he won a starting assignment.

Second in Offense

But Purdue rolls into Madison rated second in the Big Ten in offense, fifth in rushing and first in passing offense.

Purdue defeated Illinois last week in a battle for second place is likely to mean the trip to the Rose Bowl because leader Michigan State can't go back this year.

Purdue travels primarily on the passing of Bob Griese and the catching of Jim Beirne, but pass defenders who concentrate on Beirne and let Jim Finley get clear are in trouble.

That's how Purdue beat Illinois. Griese wanted to pass to Beirne, found him covered, rolled out toward the sideline and then hit Finley in the corner of the end zone.

In seven games, Purdue has gained 1,369 yards in the air of which 1,275 came on 100 of 168 passes completed by Griese. Beirne has caught 48 passes for 585 yards and five touchdowns, Finley 21 for 310 and two touchdowns.

The boilermakers have a running game, too, and have gained 980 yards on the ground. Sophomore fullback Perry Williams has rolled up 414 yards in 116 carries. Halfback Bob Hurst has 168 yards in 61 carries, and Griese has gone the same distance on 49 keeps.

Steve Figi Will Start at halfback for Lawrence University's football team Saturday at Monmouth. Figi was one of the standouts in last weekend's win over Grinnell.

Purdue's Griese Eclipses Big 10 Offense Record

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten headquarters noted Wednesday that Purdue's Bob Griese set a conference record for total offense in a single game as he rallied the Boilermakers to 25-21 football victory over Illinois Saturday at Lafayette, Ind.

Griese, shaking off effects of five interceptions, wound up with 19 completions on 35 tosses for 288 yards and ran eight times for 29 yards, amassing a total of 317 yards.

The former record was 309 yards, set by Ron Miller of Wisconsin against Minnesota in 1961. Miller completed 19 of 37 passes for 297 yards and ran seven times for 12.

Wisconsin's Goose Kill Set at 24,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wisconsin's Canada goose kill this season, in a season cut short in a climax to the federal goose-chasing experiment at Horicon National Wildlife Refuge, was 24,000—10,000 over the quota established for the state.

Director John Gottschalk of the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service disclosed the figures Wednesday in a letter to Rep. Henry S. Reuss, in which he told the Milwaukee Democrat that the federal service plans a meeting of all Mississippi Flyway states to discuss the experiment.

Reuss said, more specifically, that the meeting's purpose would be "to prevent a repetition of the debacle."

The goose season at Horicon was terminated after three days, when an overkill was apparent. More than 100,000 geese were using the refuge at that point, and the earlier hazing efforts apparently served only to move them out onto neighboring croplands.

Whitewater Can Clinch Share Of WSUC Title

Whitewater State, one of the nation's 25 unbeaten and untied football teams, could clinch a tie for the State University Conference title when it meets La Crosse Saturday.

River Falls dropped to third place in the WSUC standings following a loss to Whitewater last week, and takes on Stevens Point in an opportunity to regain No. 2 spot.

La Crosse, River Falls' victim two weeks ago, had been considered a title contender. If Whitewater wins, only a game with Oshkosh remains in the way of a conference championship for the Warhawks.

In other conference games, Oshkosh is at Superior and Stout State is at Eau Claire. Platteville is at Iowa Wesleyan in a non-conference match.

Sun Prairie Gridder In Fair Condition After Surgery

MADISON (AP) — Steve Borchert, Sun Prairie High School junior center, was reported in fair condition in a Madison hospital Wednesday after undergoing surgery Saturday night for a brain clot.

Borchert's coach, Fran Sheeman, said the clot apparently resulted from a head bump in a game at Monroe Oct. 21, but the youth missed only one day of school and played in his team's final game Friday in Middleton.

Federal Jury Rules Against Cepeda in Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal jury ruled against Orlando Cepeda Wednesday night in the baseball player's $1 million libel suit against Look magazine.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated more than 10 hours before finding for the defendant.

Cepeda's attorney, Marvin Lewis, said he would file an immediate appeal with the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

During the 13-day trial, Cepeda said he was libelled by a May 21, 1963 article written by Tim Cohane that said the first baseman was in the front-office "doghouse" when he played for the San Francisco Giants.

Look said the article by Cohane, then the magazine's sports editor, was "responsible reporting" by an "ethical sportswriter."

Cepeda was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals the past season and was voted the Comeback Player of the Year for his performance.

Wins AFL Honor

Nance Wants to Play Against NFL Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Nance, Boston's sophomore sensation, has stopped thinking about Jimmy Brown — and started running like him.

He ran like him last Sunday, gaining 208 yards rushing in 38 tries as the Patriots defeated Oakland 24-21, and today was named the Offensive Player of the Week in the American Football League by The Associated Press.

The 208 yards on the ground represented Nance's personal high, surpassing anything he had ever done even at Syracuse, where he became the third great Orange running back — following in the footsteps of Brown and Ernie Davis.

Drafted by the Patriots and the NFL's Chicago Bears, Nance decided to go with Boston. But he went nowhere for them last year until the last four games when he got his weight down to a respectable 235 and forgot the comparisons people were bound to make.

'Wanted to Play'

"I forgot Jimmy Brown and the comparisons," Nance recalls, "and for the first time in months I wanted to play football."

He picked up this season where he left off last year and has turned into the No. 1 ground gainer in the AFL, his efforts against the Raiders pushing his total yardage for the year to 753 — more than halfway to Paul Lowe's league record of 1,121 with seven games to go.

But, while the Jimmy Brown comparisons may be behind Nance, the comparison being made between the AFL and the National League, still are in front of him. And Nance says that's one of his driving forces.

"I'm tired of hearing all this talk about the NFL being so great and that I couldn't have played in that league," said the 23-year-old fullback. "I think about the merger a lot — especially about the big championship game and how I want to play against the NFL."

There's little doubt that's what his mind was on against the Raiders as he barrelled over the 200-yard mark for the first time in his career, scored two touchdowns and helped push the Patriots into first place in the Eastern Division.

Mel Farr of UCLA is second with 62 points followed by Lenny Snow of Georgia Tech, Floyd Little of Syracuse, Don Fitzgerald of Kent State and Bob Lee of Pacific, Calif., with 60 each.

Ken Herbert of Houston scored 30 points against Tampa and zoomed from 67th to ninth place with 57 points

Denmark's Vikings rolled over Hortonville, 32-6, Wednesday night to wrap up the Little Nine Conference championship and a perfect (9-0) season mark Coach Jerry Leiterman's crew thus notched the title outright which the Vikings were forced to share with Freedom last year.

In other season finales, Wrightstown struggled to a 6-6 tie with Hilbert but remained in second place; Winneconne took third on the strength of a 28-19 whipping of Reedsville; Omro exploded to beat Freedom, 36-18; and Shiocton held Brillion to a 13-13 deadlock.

Quarterback Gary Roberts threw two touchdown passes to lead Denmark. Roberts hit Darrell Hansen with an 18-yard strike in the first quarter and Bruce Meyer on a 9-yard toss in the second frame.

Pat Hickey and Toby Lemmens tallied touchdowns on short runs, and John Ducket added the fifth Vike TD on a 20-yard run, following teammate Dick Malweiski's blocking of a punt. Hortonville scored its only TD on a 34-yard pass from Dick Tennie.

Stages Rally

Hilbert rallied in the final period to tie Wrightstown. Dave Mueller got the tying marker when he romped 10 yards capping a 51-yard drive. Tom Ribarchik got the Wrightstown TD on a 4-yard burst off tackle

Omro broke loose for three touchdowns in the third quarter to turn a close contest with Freedom into a rout. The Foxes led only, 12-6, at he half, but paced by the running of tailback Gene Lee upped the margin to 30-6. Lee scored four touchdowns in all on scampers of 15, 15, 43 and 32 yards Rick Garvey scored twice for Freedom, once on a fumble recovery

Don Flanigan caught three touchdown passes from quarterback John Baitinger and kicked a 20-yard field goal to bring Winneconne its seventh victory. Baitinger's scoring tosses covered 74, 18, and eight yards.

Shiocton gained its tie with Brillion on Wayne Schmidt's 80-yard gallop for a touchdown in the third quarter. Gary Johnson scored the other Shiocton RD on a 50-yard pass from Gary Johnson to Tom Umholt The Brillion scores were both by Hugh Rohrdanz on 52- and 27-yard pass plays.

Bass, Starr Still Hold NFL Statistical Leads

Wilson Has Most Interceptions; Lee Tops the Punters

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Bass of the Los Angees Rams continues to show the way in the race for the National Football League rushing title vacated by Jim Brown, the retired Cleveland fullback.

After eight games Bass had gained 631 yards on 140 carries on the basis of statistics released Wednesday. If he maintains the pace, the Rams' top running threat should top the 1,000-yard mark with yards to spare.

Although the Rams' passing game has been erratic and the team ranks 10th in the league in passing, Tommy McDonald is first and Tom Moore fourth among the receivers. McDonald's 38 catches for 415 yards have yet to produce a touchdown.

Bart Starr's marksmanship against the Detroit Lions, 11 of 13, left him in the passing lead with an average gain of 10.02 yards on 102 completions in 158 attempts The Packers' quarterback has thrown 10 touchdowns and has been intercepted only three times.

Dan Reeves, Dallas halfback, is first in scoring with 66 points on 11 touchdowns, four running and seven as a receiver.

Larry Wilson's big night for St. Louis against Chicago put the Cardinals free safety in the lead with eight interceptions for 174 yards and two TDs.

Dave Lee, Baltimore's punter, is way out front in his department with a 50.3-yard average. Johnny Roland of the Cardinals is the punt return leader with a 14.2-yard average and Irv Cross of the Rams tops the kickoff return men with a 31.4-yard average.

Minnesota's Defense Has Improved

'A Great Year'

McGrane said "Eller is having a great year and has returned to his 1964 form. Larsen has replaced Jim Prestel who was traded to the Giants"

Warwick has replaced the departed defensive captain, Rip Hawkins, at middle linebacker. "Warwick will be better than Hawkins. He has more speed," McGrane pointed out, adding: "the linebacking has improved in the last three years." Hansen is a rookie out of Illinois where he played a year behind Dick Butkus. Kirby, a 3-year man, replaced Bill Jobko, who went to Atlanta.

Sharockman was hurt early in the 49er game and his replacement, Mike Fitzgerald, a rookie, did a strong job in his spot. Sharockman has recovered and will start. George Rose started the season at left corner, went out with an injury and Mackbee took his spot. "Rose hasn't been able to get back in," the publicist said.

Hackbart, the former Badger who started his career in Green Bay before being traded to Washington, leads the Vikings with four interceptions. He plays the free safety position. Kassulke, a 3-year Viking, is the other safety.

While the Viking defense is running hot, the aforementioned Tarkenton is in the midst of a boiling streak.

Frantic Francis, in his last three starts, has accounted for 966 yards with his passing and scrambling. He completed 61 of 98 passes (a 74 7 completion percentage) for 836 yards and seven touchdowns with only two interceptions. And he has carried 22 times for 130 yards and three touchdowns.

Tarkenton's major receivers are Red Phillips, the flanker; Paul Flatley at left end, and Preston Carpenter, the slot man.

Steelers Back To the ABCs Of Blocking

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The blocking of the Pittsburgh Steelers has been so bad Coach Bill Austin is drilling his linemen on the ABCs of blocking.

"Our blocking has been so poor the last few games that I am having the front line working on its assignments daily," Austin said Wednesday.

"And to give the boys the general idea of what I want them to do, I'll have them don shoulder pads and helmets Thursday for more briefing on the basic precepts of good blocking," he added.

In mud and drizzle Wednesday, Austin held a long drill as the Steelers prepared to meet the Cleveland Browns Sunday in a National Football League clash at Pitt Stadium.

Dodgers Unable To Locate Wills

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The whereabouts of Los Angeles Dodger shortstop Maury Wills is somewhat of a mystery.

He left the team's playing tour of Japan last week against the desire of Dodger President Walter O'Malley to have some work done on his injured right knee, he said.

Dodger physician Dr. Robert Kerlan said Wednesday he had not heard from Wills.

Wills was reported playing his banjo last Sunday in Honolulu with a Dixieland combo. A honolulu reporter said the infielder had checked into a hotel there last Friday and checked out the next day.

Billy Casper Selected as Golfer of Year

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper of San Diego, Calif., who parlayed a steady temperament and an exotic diet into winnings of $120,747, is the Professional Golfer of the Year.

The announcement was made Tuesday during the annual president's dinner of the PGA. Casper won the U S. Open in San Francisco last June in a playoff with Arnold Palmer although he trailed the Latrobe, Pa, shotmaker by seven strokes with only nine holes to go. He also won the Western Open.

Others honored at the dinner were Billy Burke, who won the 1931 Open, and Bill Strausbaugh of Ellicott City, Md, designated as the club professional of the year.

Casper, victim of many allergies, eats buffalo steaks and such fruits as avocado pears to stay in playing condition.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Coliseum Commission has entered the bidding for the game between the winners in the National and American football leagues Jan 8

The commission joined Houston, Miami and New Orleans in seeking the first championship game involving both pro leagues.

Coliseum General Manager Bill Nicholas said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle would come to Los Angeles in the next two weeks to discuss the commission's bid.

Toronto Held to Third Standoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There have been three ties in the young National Hockey League season, the Toronto Maple Leafs have been involved in all three, all three have come at Toronto and all three times the Leafs had to settle for the ties after holding healthy leads

The Leafs dug themselves deeper into the rut Wednesday night in a 2-2 deadlock with Montreal in the only NHL game.

Toronto already had played to a 4-4 tie with New York and a 3-3 tie with Boston. The Rangers rallied from 3-0 for the deadlock while the Bruins came back from a 3-1 deficit.

This time the Leafs took a 2-0 lead.

Schofield Gridder Named Prep 'Player of the Week'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mike Tyskiewicz, a two - way player who was a one - man gang for Schofield against Wisconsin Rapids last week, has been named Associated Press Wisconsin high school football "Player of the Week."

Tyskiewicz won the honor Wednesday for his defensive play in the Evergreens' 26 - 0 conquest of eighth - ranked Rapids.

The victory kept Schofield in second place in the AP's weekly "Big Ten" poll and locked up the Wisconsin Valley Conference crown for the unbeaten Evergreens

A defensive end and an offensive guard, Tyskiewicz blocked well and tackled superbly against Rapids, said his coach, Howard Stiehm.

"He's the best defensive lineman in the conference," the coach said. He's strong and he's quick enough to be a pole vaulter in track.

"He can contain the passer and they don't run on his side of the line. They try him the first time and that's it. They'll send two fellows to hit him and he'll pile 'em up and get the ball carrier"

Has 12 Tackles

Tyskiewicz, a 5-foot-9, 185 - pound senior, was credited with 12 tackles against Rapids. He dumped the passer at least four times, Stiehm said

Rapids was held to only four yards passing and 54 rushing.

Others nominated by Wisconsin sports writers for this week's award included Don Joigenson of Marinette, Don McHugh of Chilton, Oscar Schuler of Little Chete St. John, Terry Mancl and Tom Seidl of Marshfield Columbus, Tom Manchester of Racine Park, Rick Abegglen of Fall River, and Marshall Gavre of Waukesha.

McHugh scored five touchdowns and kicked three extra points to boost his season scoring total to 118 points—an Eastern Wisconsin Conference record — as Chilton beat Elkhart Lake 49-0.

Schuler scored three touchdowns, including one on a ball theft, gained 99 yards rushing and 88 yards receiving in a win over Menasha St. Mary.

'Ready Now,' Bruhn Says Of Badgers

MADISON (AP) — Coach Milt Bruhn declared his Wisconsin Badgers physically and mentally ready for Saturday's Big Ten football game with Purdue and lopped 30 minutes off Wednesday's practice session.

"I feel they are ready right now and I don't want to overwork them," said Bruhn. "Last night I could have cut practice 15 minutes and still accomplished the same thing."

Normally, the Wednesday drill is one of the Badgers' toughest in preparation for the upcoming contest and usually lasts two hours. But this day, the brisk workout amid snow flurries was held to 80 minutes with emphasis on timing on offense and stopping the passes of Purdue's Bob Griese.

Two Badgers will see no action against the Boilermakers. Warren Dyer, defensive end, and Ed Hoffman, defensive tackle, are both out with leg injuries.

Soutar Leads Weber by One In Pin Tourney

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Soutar of Detroit startled the bowling world by winning the Professional Bowlers Association Championship in Cleveland, Ohio, five years ago. He was just a rookie and only 20 years old

The $6,000 first prize in 1961 enabled the skinny 150-pound 6-foot-3 kegler to continue on the pro tour Today he is on his way to the $10,000 first prize in this year's $65,000 PBA Championship at the Garden City Bowl

It won't be easy for him, however At the end of the first 12 games in the opening two rounds Wednesday Soutar led Dick Weber of St Louis, by just one pin, 2631 to 2630 Close behind, tied for third at 2617, were Wayne Zahn of Atlanta and Skee Foremsky of El Paso, Tex John Guenther of Seattle was fifth in the 192-man field with 2610

Cincinnati Tips Knickerbockers

Continue 18-Game Jinx; Bulls Snap String, Down Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The outcome was the usual one and the reason was the usual one, but time may be running out on the Cincinnati Royals.

Not for 18 games — stretching back to 1962 — have the New York Knicks beaten the Royals in Cincinnati and Wednesday night was no exception Five points and a crucial steal in the last two minutes by Oscar Robertson led the Royals to a 131-129 victory

But the Knicks, who lead Cincinnati by a half-game in the NBA's Eastern Division, were never really out of it and for a time showed signs of breaking the jinx that haunts them

In other games, Chicago beat Baltimore 102-94 and Boston crushed Los Angeles 133-108.

Even Record

At Chicago, the Bulls broke a four-game losing streak and evened their record at 5-5 Erwin Mueller topped the Bulls with 26 points and Guy Rodgers had 25. LeRoy Ellis threw in 22 for the Bullets and Gus Johnson had 21

With Elgin Baylor and Jerry West still on the sidelines, the Lakers fared no better in Boston than they have elsewhere in the league John Havlicek scored 27 points for the Celtics and Bailey Howell had 20 as Boston moved to within a half-game of Eastern Division - leading Philadelphia Jerry Chambers, a rookie from Utah, led the Lakers with 24-points

Seymour, O'Brien Return to Duty For Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind (AP) — Jim Seymour, brilliant split end, and reserve quarterback Coley O'Brien, who both missed Notre Dame's 31-7 rout of Navy, returned to the Irish football squad Wednesday

Seymour still limped on an ankle wrenched against Oklahoma Oct 22, but possibly will see some action here Saturday against battered Pittsburgh (1-6)

Prior to his injury, Seymour caught 34 passes for 675 yards and five touchdowns as exclusive target of quarterback Terry Hanratty Without Seymour the Irish resorted to a ground game against Navy

O'Brien is reported to be suffering from diabetes, but is permitted to practice under a strict regimen

Polish Hill 'Walking' Away, Agency Reports

Bucky Pope Reactivated By LA Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pass-catching Bucky Pope, a sensation as a rookie in the National Football League in 1964, was reactivated Wednesday by the Los Angeles Rams in a move they hope will boost them out of a three-game losing streak.

Pope, 200-pound 6-foot-5 end from Catawba College, injured his knee in an exhibition game in 1965 and missed the entire season.

As a rookie, Pope caught 10 touchdown passes to tie for the league's best. His average gain of 31.4 was one of the best in Ram history.

To make room for the "Catawba Claw," the nickname bestowed on Bucky, the Rams placed rookie fullback Henry Dyer on the reserve list. Dyer has a knee injury

Coach George Allen said Pope will see action against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

Gets Chance After Struggling Through Operations

Liscio Key to Dallas Offense

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys waited a long time for Tony Liscio but it sure seems to have been worth it.

As key man in the offensive line, Liscio is credited more than anybody with making the Dallas offense tops in the National Football League.

But it was quite a struggle as the 6-foot-5 264-pounder went through two operations, a staph infection and long stays in the hospital trying to get in shape to play.

Coach Tom Landry was asked early this season what had made the big difference in the suddenly explosive Cowboy offense that leads the league with 430 yards per game and in scoring with 38 points per contest.

"Renfro and Tony Liscio," replied Landry. He referred to Mel Renfro, shifted from defense to running back. But that was early in the season.

Back to Defense

Renfro since has been sent back to the defense because Landry said he was too valuable to be sitting on the bench while Dan Reeves took over his job.

Liscio, however, is another matter. He's the fellow who gave the offensive line just what it needed when he was switched from tackle to guard the second week of training camp and became an immediate hit

He has the speed to lead plays and has the balance and coordination you expect of a boy who was an all-city basketball star in Pittsburgh He's one of the best pass blockers in the NFL

Liscio's return to pro football is a story of courage and desire.

In 1964 playing against Philadelphia, he suffered cartilage and ligament damage to his knee. It was operated upon Dec. 3 and he came out of it with a fever—he had chemical hepatitis since he was allergic to the anasthesia. He lost 30 pounds.

Christmas eve they thought he might be well enough to let him out of the hospital. So they broke the cast off his leg. Then they discovered a staph infection, caused by stitches used to tie the ligament.

This went on until July, 1965, when the stitches were taken out and the infection healed

He missed training camp and worked out in August, 1965, still hopeful of playing when the infection returned. So he sat out all last season.

An operation in January did the job, however, and he got back with the Cowboys in time to lead the offense to its finest showing in seven years of NFL membership.

"I started exercising and working with weights to strengthen the knee in January and worked right up to training camp," he says. "I still didn't have any confidence in the leg, but on about the third day of camp I got a big lick on the knee and it held. After that, I stopped worrying about it."

So have the Dallas-Cowboys.

Would You Believe 5 in a Row?

Massillon Mired in Longest Losing Streak Since 1932

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—Bob Seaman never expected the No 1 high school football coaching job in Ohio to turn into a nightmare

But adversity has struck the football fortunes at Massillon High School

The mighty Tigers, rated the best scholastic team in the state 11 times since 1947, are going through the agony of a four-game losing streak, longest at the school since 1932

No. 5 looms Friday night when unbeaten Steubenville, the top-ranked grid power in the state, comes to Tigertown.

The 34-year-old Seaman, in his first year here after two brilliant campaigns at Sandusky High School, still maintains a good sense of humor

"I'm liable to make history losing five in a row," Seaman noted

From 1932 through last year, a period described as the "modern era" by Massillon boosters, Tiger teams have turned in 13 unbeaten, untied seasons in posting a fabulous 296-34-12 record

This season, Massillon has a 3-4-1 mark, following two straight schoolboy championships

It may be small consolation, but Seaman is traveling in some fast company In 1932, the year Massillon lost four in a row, a young fellow by the name of Paul Brown was in his first year at the Tiger helm

He bounced back for some pretty good years with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

'Realist With Vision' Gives Radically New Farm Plan

World s Growing Food Demand Target of Agricultural Proposal

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON — Some will say that Percy Hardiman, president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, was blowing bubbles.

His proposals made here Wednesday for facing up to the growing world food demands constitute a radical departure from farm organization traditionalism.

Three high-ranking University of Wisconsin men of agriculture called him a realist with vision.

Hardiman's concept of needed Farm Bureau endeavor covered a gigantic storage and systems service, a farm enterprise financing program, and a research and development department.

He put special emphasis on the application of new methods and new products toward "a golden age in agriculture."

His presentation was a trial run, Hardiman told a small luncheon gathering. The Farm Bureau won't hear about it officially until the convention in Madison later this month.

"This is a historic meeting," was the prediction of Dr. Henry Ahlgren, assistant chancellor of UW Extension.

Like sentiments were expressed by Dean Glen Pulver and Dr. Mark Stahmann, a UW biochemist who has done extensive protein research.

Increased Demands

Hardiman didn't claim full credit for the proposals. He said fellow board members had expressed a keen desire to meet the new challenges in agriculture.

beef, 10 to 15 per cent more milk, and increased quantities of other commodities. We must accept an important part in helping to feed the underfed people in many areas of the world," he said.

"We have been told that integration will come in agriculture, that greater use of contracts will come. Farms will be much larger and more specialized. Need for capital will be great, and much more storage space will be required."

Increased demand will bring increased farm prices, but Hardiman pointed out that production costs also will increase. A storage and systems service under farm bureau auspices, he said, would help farmers to reduce costs and increase production.

Applied Research

One result, he said, would be full utilization as animal forage of crop residues now left in the field.

"This type of vertical storage can be provided at prices substantially below competition The profits would provide funds for a farm bureau research and development department to generate new economic legs for other ideas through applied research," Hardiman asserted.

He suggested the development of services such as forage testing, residue testing and farm managment assistance.

"Irrigation will be common in southern Wisconsin in the next 10 years, and we need to look into this area. Group purchasing of farm machinery is another coming development. We can assist farmers in many ways through research and financing," he said.

Hardiman commented that it is logical for the farm bureau to assume new responsibilities. He pointed out that the organization has shown membership increases in all 55 organized counties of the state for the last two years.

Agriculture in 1980

Dr. Ahlgren told of a University of Wisconsin study almost completed which visualizes Wisconsin agriculture in 1980.

"Wisconsin farms will require substantially more services than today," he said. "With the age of automation we will see a whole new series of service industries."

Because farmers are losing political strength, Ahlgren stressed, general farm organizations will have to perform in other areas if they wish to survive He said any real political influence of farmers in the future will come from commodity groups.

Dean Pulver also saw a need for practical application of basic research done by the universities

"This is a new positive program," Pulver told Hardiman "The farm bureau is in a good position to render dynamic, forward-thinking leadership for the benefit of the farmer"

He urged action now.

"The people who progress are those in an innovative area — those who take advantage of ideas in the early stages," he emphasized.

Full Utilization

Dr Stahmann pointed to the rapidly mounting need for more protein in the world with its population explosion Scientists, he said, are concerned with full utilization of plant and animal products

"The need for calories is readily supplied, and vitamins can be produced through synthesis but most of the world is short of the proteins which furnish the essential amino acids," Stahmann said.

He predicted extensive development of high protein foods from the leaves and stems of plants A few are already on the market, and he displayed several samples for the group to taste

"Not bad," one taster said of bacon-flavored granules produced from alfalfa leaves, "but I'll buy the real thing as long as I can"

Dr. Stahmann said he did not anticipate that meat would disappear, though there might be less of it. He said the residue left from food production will be available as animal feed

"But we must recognize that plants are converted into animal products with considerable waste," he declared.

Wisconsin is in a unique position to pioneer in protein research, Stahmann said, because the agricultural enterprise already is largely forage crops.

Barn Fire Kills 46 Dairy Cows Near Kaukauna

Gerald Van Asten Family at Church When Blaze Starts

WRIGHTSTOWN — Volunteer firemen from Freedom joined the Wrightstown department in containing a fire which destroyed a barn and 46 head of dairy cattle about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday on the Gerald Van Asten farm in the Town of Kaukauna.

Van Asten has another farm at which he lives on the east side of U S. 41 in Brown County. It was not affected by the fire.

He was returning from church and found the L-shaped barn engulfed in flames. Also lost were 7,000 bales of hay and all the milking equipment.

The bulk tank in the milk house was destroyed with 12 head of young stock. Two silos adjacent to the barn also were damaged.

Cause of the fire was not determined. Freedom firemen returned home after fighting the blaze for about an hour.

Gerald Van Asten, route 3, Kaukauna, his cousin, who is president of the Outagamie County Farm Bureau, said this morning that he had received a number of calls from people mistaking the identity. Gerald Van Asten went through a similar fire about five years ago and has since rebuilt Topics to be discussed include morality in the community, new modes of education, politics and summer months and job activities. General discussion with audience participation will be held after each session. Sessions will last about 45 minutes and students will be given 10-minute breaks after each period.

Bachelors' Disinterest Causes State Employe Maternity Benefit Lag

Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The publicity bulletin of the Wisconsin State Employes Association relates in candid terms the reasons why a proposal to ask for higher maternity benefits for state employes under the state civil service hospital insurance program failed to win approval at the association convention

"In the absence of enough prospective fathers and mothers in the delegation and because of the obvious disinterest of bachelors, the convention tabled the proposal," according to the publication

Eliminate Source When Callus Is Removed

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a way to relieve heavy callus on the ball of the foot other than by having it removed? I have treatment every month but a week later it feels as bad again. — Mrs. K.C.

Such a callus indicates abnormal pressure. You can keep on having it removed indefinitely, but unless the conditions which cause it are remedied, the callus will form again.

A different shoe style or arch support may change the point at which the pressure occurs. A factor often overlooked is excessive weight. Reduction may be in order.

A callus need not be removed unless it causes discomfort. It is, however, an exact indication of where pressure is greatest. (The same applies to corns.)

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband of three months (he is 51) says he read that a man "shortens his life" with too-frequent sexual relations. Is this true or is he joking? Mrs. W.W.L.

I can't say whether he is joking, but what he says is not true. For a healthy man, frequency of sexual activity has no effect on his health or length of life.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've always heard that cracking one's knuckles makes them big. I have the habit. What physical damage results? J.C.L.

Dr. Molner

The cracking does no harm and will not enlarge the knuckles.

It's a sort of novelty that when a person who happens to have joint capsules of a certain looseness discovers he can crack or pop them. It soon becomes a habit—one that can be a nuisance to those around you. Keeping this in mind should help you stop it.

Dear Dr. Molner: My grandmother has diabetes. She is not allowed much sugar, so is it all right to give her other sweeteners such as honey and corn syrup? — M.O.

No, definitely not. Honey and corn syrup are concentrated forms of sugar and she must avoid it. She can have artificial sweeteners in tea or coffee, or even in other dishes. She gets a certain amount of natural sugar from fruit and vegetables which are calculated in her diet as carbohydrate.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about yellow jaundice in newborn babies? My first two babies did not have it, but the next two did; nevertheless they survived without after-effects.

Does jaundice have anything to do with me or my husband? Mrs. L.M.B.

This suggests an Rh incompatibility. You are one Rh type and your husband is the opposite. The Rh factor applies to the blood. Rh positive means that the so-called Rhesus factor is present, and Rh negative means it is absent.

This is something over which you have no control. You are born one way and you stay that way. But when parents have opposite Rh factors it can cause difficulty in babies.

With the first baby (sometimes the second) there may be no trouble because the mother has not become sensitized. In later pregnancies there can be trouble, so your Rh factors should be checked. Sometimes it is necessary to drain away the baby's blood and give it a transfusion of a different type.

Farm Labor Market Is Still Tight

MADISON (AP)—The number of persons employed on Wisconsin farms this fall was down 24,000 compared to 1965, the state Department of Agriculture reported today. The summary counted 30,000 hired workers and 192,000 family workers in the last week in September.

"While a small decrease in farm employment may be attributed to the decline in the number of farms, the drop in the number of workers is largely the result of a tight labor market", the agency said.

Many farmers noted the supply of farm labor to be practically nonexistent, even though wage rates are higher than a year ago.

Pay for hired workers is up six per cent compared with a year ago.

Voters Reminded of Referendum Altering Legal Residency Time

Persons voting in the general election Tuesday are reminded of the referendum appearing on the ballot which, if passed, will change the legal residency period necessary for voting privileges.

The present law makes a one-year residency mandatory prior to voting. The new law would reduce the waiting time to six months.

Steps to Save Taxes

Stocks as Contributions Will Cut Your Tax Costs

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In Collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

When you contribute to your church, school, etc., you probably just write a check for the amount. But you could make your contribution in other ways to get the same charitable deduction as your check — plus extra valuable tax breaks.

This is possible because you can get a charitable deduction not only for cash but also for the full value of any property you give away — such as stocks, bonds, used clothing, paintings, merchandise. If the property you give away is worth more than it cost you, the increase in value is not taxable to you even though you deduct this higher value as your charitable contribution. If you are in a high tax bracket, this important right can give you a better after-tax return than actually selling the property.

Let's say that despite the stock slump, you have stock now worth $1,000 against your purchase price of $450 years ago and you want to give your charity $1,000. If you give the charity the $1,000 of stock, you can deduct $1,000 as your charitable contribution and will pay no tax on the $550 paper profit you pass on to the charity. The charity can sell the shares and get the benefit of $1,000.

Note that the key tax break in contributing stock or other property worth more than you paid is the tax you save on the paper profit. You may, therefore, prefer to give only the profit and the Treasury says you can do this The proper way to do it is to sell your stock or other property to the charitable organization at your cost. This gives you back what you paid for it, lets the charity have only your paper profit and also gives you the maximum tax savings from your contribution. Thus, if in the example above you sold the stock to the charity for $450, you would get a charitable deduction for $550 without giving up one dollar of the money you originally invested in the stock.

If you are among the fortunate few who have short-term capital gains on stocks, you will find this sale to a charity at cost an excellent way to contribute at little or no tax cost. Say you are in the 50 per cent bracket, have stock which cost you $1,000 four months ago and is now worth $2,100. If you sell the stock to a church for $1,000, you can deduct the $1,100 increase in value as a charitable contribution. This would leave you with $1,000 plus a tax saving equal to 50 per cent of your $1,100 deduction, or a total of $1,550.

If you sold your stock in the market, you would get $2,100 but would have to pay a tax of $550, again leaving you with $1,550. Your bargain sale to the charity for only $1,000 gives you a worthwhile contribution at no actual cost to yourself

Other Possibilities

If you are a businessman, farmer, etc., there is an even more attractive tax-saving contribution method available to you, for your merchandise or stock in trade has a built-in appreciation in value under the Treasury rule that your contribution is valued at its lowest normal selling price. Since you normally sell your merchandise above its cost, you — as a merchant, dealer, farmer — have an automatic tax-saving opportunity because the excess of value over cost (price over cost in your case) is not taxed if given away to a charity.

Suppose your corporation sells goods at a 40 per cent mark-up and its contributions run about $12,000 a year. If your corporation is in a 48 per cent bracket and gives the charity a check for $12,000, its out-of-pocket cost is $6,240 after a tax saving of $5,760 (48 per cent of $12,000). But suppose your corporation gives the same charity $12,000 of merchandise which cost $7,200.

Your corporation gets the same tax savings of $5,760, but since the merchandise cost only $7,200, the corporation is now out of pocket only $1,440 — quite a difference.

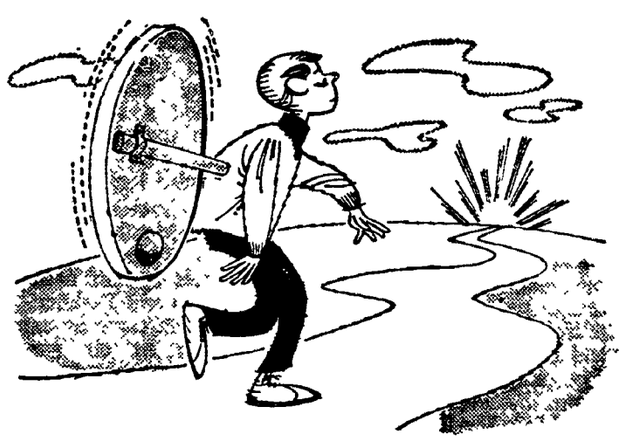
How to Help the Underachiever—4

Speeding the Slow Learner

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California



The slow student has always been at a disadvantage in competing with his faster classmates but in this speed-up age with its timed tests and crowded curricula he is penalized even more heavily than in the past.

The old sayings of, "slow and steady wins the race;" or, "you must choose to be slow and accurate or fast and careless," are misleading.

Slow students are not always born that way. Whether a student works fast or slowly is often entirely a matter of habit. He can, if he so chooses, think both fast AND accurately; in fact, speeding up his reading or his solutions of problems may keep his mind thoroughly engaged with the task, so that his thoughts do not wander. When his mind wanders he allows careless errors to creep into his work.

Overcoming Speedup Fears

The concept that he CAN work faster merely by deciding to do so is new and startling to any student who is so slow that he has not finished a test on time in years.

Most students are actually afraid to make a trial of the idea in an examination that will count on their grades. Therefore, try arranging a test under circumstances in which failure would not be embarrassing to them.

I have known students to complete such an examination in one-third the time they had consumed previously, and to be more accurate also.

Success Begets Success

Once convinced that they can work faster merely by deciding to do so, students not only make higher grades on examinations, but cut down the time spent on homework.

After this, a slow underachieving student is ready to accept other suggestions.

He is willing to do repeated drills to increase his speed in handwriting.

He will strive to increase his reading speed and reading comprehension simultaneously.

Now, discuss these additional ideas with him:

1. Twenty minutes of study on a lesson before it is presented in class may save two hours of study later. This makes it possible to learn efficiently while listening.

2. In problem-solving either in homework or on tests it actually takes less time to write out ALL the steps than it does to leave some out and do the operations mentally.

3. Keeping the study of a subject up-to-date through proper organization and frequent reviews takes less time in the long run than reliance on cram sessions.

If he will incorporate all these in his revised study plans, he will overcome the idea that he is a slow student.

(Tomorrow: The student who works too hard.)

Now that you've seen all the daring new things our stylists did, get in and sample some of the safest, soundest ideas on the road!

What you feel is as new as what you see—thanks to all the fresh thinking that's gone into the way it rides, steers, starts, stops and looks after your safety.

It's got a remarkable new road feel—and ride is only the beginning of it. We improved the smoothness and quietness of the power train. Worked out a new anti-noise, anti-vibration body mounting system. Topped off everything with a solidly crafted, sound-conditioned Body by Fisher. And came up with a ride so hushed and gentle you'll feel like calling this one the '67 Shhhevrolet.

It even steers, starts and stops better. Refinements in the steering system make turning the wheel as much as 10% easier. A new battery and starter motor snap the standard V8 and 6 to life more quickly. Brake drums are precision rounded to make your stopping smoother. And if your kind of driving calls for the extra fade-resistance of front disc brakes, you can specify them.

We put safety features on top of safety features. For example, there's an energy-absorbing steering wheel atop the new GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column. A dual master cylinder brake system with warning light. An energy-absorbing instrument panel with smooth contoured knobs and levers. Seat belts front and rear with pushbutton buckles, and front seat belt retractors. All standard, to be sure.

And there's a new SS 427 package you can order for the Impala Super Sport Coupe or Convertible. For starters, you get a 427-cubic-inch Turbo-Jet V8 that turns out 385 hp. Plus a domed hood, special flat-cornering suspension and red or white stripe tires on wider wheels.

Of course, there are all sorts of new custom features you can add, too, such as tape or FM stereo. But if you find so much that's new a bit too much to remember—drop down to your dealer's and take a drive. It'll all become unforgettable.

partisan crowds, urging party workers to "turn out the vote," damning the Democrats, urging support of all Republican candidates and briefing constituents on intricacies of latest legislation.

Recognized by Many

By and large, it was a day for the candidate to "come home from the wars" and make an accounting to the people who sent him to Washington.

On the other hand, Dr. Kagen pumped hands, passed out literature and explained his position to people he didn't know and who didn't know him, although a great many recognized him from "ads and commercials."

Those who had the time asked Dr. Kagen his position on government spending, Viet Nam, pollution and the anti-poverty war.

Byrnes' audience knew his position. Most of them heard it many times during his previous 11 campaigns.

Dr. Kagen's day began with a trip from Appleton in his "Kagen kar" to a canning plant cafeteria in Green Bay. Here he ran into a "hostile" engineer and a "skeptical" laboring man.

The engineer was a Byrnes man and the conversation over coffee was polite and mostly non-political. The working man — holding two jobs and putting in an average of 15 hours a day — had doubts about the Great Society and its anti-poverty program.

'Made Headway'

The doctor, speaking easily in explaining his position of supporting the administration, observed after the session, "I think I might have made some headway."

From the canning plant, Dr. Kagen "hit the streets." He popped into stores along Main Street and shook hands with everyone in sight. Following an hour of this ("I really think this is the way to get across to people," noted the doctor), he met with 8th disrtict teamster and business representatives.

Here the conversation was more typical of "Byrnes Day." Dr. Kagen thanked the normally Democratic union officials for past support and urged them to get their local workers to the polls.

Following this pep talk, Dr Kagen chatted briefly with GOP State Sen. Reuben La Fave in the hotel lobby. Generalities were discussed.

After his opening talk at breakfast, Byrnes checked into his office in Green Bay for letter signing, campaign coordination and a few official duties ("You know, I'm still a congressman," he observed), and then headed for Marinette.

Natural Procedure

During the 55-mile trip, the congressman flipped on his public address system passing through Oconto and Peshtigo, a procedure which came as naturally to him as his warm greeting to newspaper editors in the two communities and his friendly wave to school children.

In Peshtigo, he paused for 45 minutes to tour the Badger Paper Mill plant, shake a few hands and view with mill officials the latest in the plant's pollution control efforts.

In Marinette, he delivered his hard-hitting speech about the need for defeating "Johnson yes-men," the same he delivered at breakfast.

It is during the formal part of campaigning — such as speech making — that Byrnes' intensity shows up. He obviously believes his words of attack on the Democrats and his demeanor reflects his sincerity.

The middle of Dr. Kagen's day was spent at the university center talking to a small group of students, fielding a few "loaded" question, posing for pictures and contributing to the United Fund.

In another contrast with his opponent, Dr. Kagen pressed the conversation. If there are no questions, Dr. Kagen asks some himself. If the conversation lags, he lightly starts one, often with a jocular remark.

Byrnes, on the other hand, was quizzed infrequently, seemed contented to let silence prevail and related an antidote only to substantiate his attack on the Democrats. He is not without humor, however.

Dr. Kagen then went on to "coffee with the girls," about an hour of chit-chat about what's bothering the ladies. Here again he met head on some polite hostility over the anti-poverty program, tried to explain his position, but conceded, "It's hard to convince them when they're that dead-set against something."

After coffee, "back on the streets," this time for a couple of hours of hand shaking, small talk and passing out literature at a shopping center.

Radio Interview

After Byrnes' lunch and half an hour of sober discussion with a minister, it was time to tape a radio interview, then back to Green Bay.

Toward the end of each day, both men appeared full of enthusiasm, but obviously not as full of energy as when the days had begun. Both expressed opinions that campaigns should be limited, but neither dwelled on the matter, nor let it — it appeared — affect the quality of their campaigning.

As the sun set, Byrnes retreated to the quiet of his hotel for a moment's respite before attending a rally. Dr. Kagen then set out for more shopping centers and an appearance at a newcomer's dance.

"Tomorrow" for Dr. Kagen and John Byrnes will be much the same — until Nov. 8.

Y Teens Boost Red Feather Drive

Bill Foth and Kris Peotter were two of the area high school students who turned out for the Red Feather benefit dance Saturday evening at the YMCA Den. Ready to sell admissions is John Ehricke. At right, the students are shown as they enjoyed the music and dancing.

Members of the YMCA Den turned the tables Saturday evening and went out in support of the Red Feather Drive. Since the Y is one of the agencies receiving support from the United Fund, the teens decided this was one way to help the drive to success.

High school students paid regular admission prices for the evening of dancing and Den activity. A combo provided music. All proceeds will be turned over to the campaign.

Man's Goals, Values Affected By Scientific Accomplishments

"Science has changed and will continue to change man," said William H. Stone, Ph.D. professor of medical genetics at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He was the speaker Wednesday morning at the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Campus, at the first of five lectures concerned with Values of Contemporary Man. The series is part of the Continuing Education program

In his presentation, "The Impact of Science on Values", Mr. Stone explained how scientific thought and discovery affect anticipations, goals and values of individcals in today's society.

"Science and human values are interrelated in the modern world," said the speaker. "Actually, science is a way of describing reality It does not have mystic qualities. A value is a desirable, useful characteristic, having an intrinsic worth. Truth is a fundamental value in the scientific world"

Life's Guideposts

Values, products of such things as knowledge and environment. are guideposts by which man should live if he wants a productive, harmonious life. He cannot live by out-dated values, and must not be afraid to change them

Technological changes have greatly changed man's life in the last century. Before then, man was 'wrong' to question anything held sacred. Today his questions have uncovered many facts, shrinking the circle of faith. He is allowed to teach and research new and revolutionary ideas He searches for new facts endlessly.

As scence brings advancements and values change, man's laws must conform to them Mr. Stone stressed it is the responsibility of society to determine how these changes will be used, pointing out what fire can heat a home but also burn it down.

These explosions of knowledge are unifying scientific thoughts and advances throughout the world. Individuals no longer can live as an isolated units away from the rest of society. The world is shrinking because of modern communication and transportation. Individual man might easily lose his identity in such a fast-moving world if he hangs onto his old values. If he discards traditions, institutions and prejudices, he will find his way and "see where he fits in society." Now, more then ever, what he does affects his fellow man Activities can no longer be classified as "just local."

In a world greatly concerned with material wealth, many of man's values have failed him. Some values are two-pronged For example, art may be appreciated because of its beauty or its material worth. It is up to man to determine which value he will live by.

Knowledge has given man the ability to create. Despite values, man is his own worst enemy. He alone has created destruction Science has never caused a war. Hate and greed, two of man's misplaced values are responsible for such a tragedy.

Values Temporary

It is ironic, the speaker said, that man wants this variety and change, when he is so afraid of differences in his fellow man Prejudices, tradition and often ignorance overshadow society's values.

Values are temporary. They must be changed to ft society or will die an undignified death

'Bargain' Based on Correct Size, Style

Nothing is a bargain if you don't need it. When shopping for clothing at a sale try to find qualities you want at the price you can or are willing to pay, suggests Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin

Sometimes sale items are shopworn, soiled or damaged If the article needs to be dry-cleaned or laundered before it can be used this raises the "bargain" price. Sometimes a damaged garment may be mended satisfactorily at home

Examine Garment

There is a difference between irregulars or seconds. Irregulars such as hosiery, may have imperfections of color, knit or size which probably will not affect the wearing quality. Seconds have flaws which may or may not show or affect wear. Examine the garment carefully before you buy

Many times items are put on sale that are colors or styles which are not becoming to a majority of people If the garment is becoming to you, it may be an excellent purchase.

Price Reductions

Price is sometimes reduced because of the size. Very small and large sizes most often remain on the racks Sample garments or shoes are often included in this type sale

Before you buy an item on sale notice the style If fashion trends are important to you, then ignore bargains that offer outdated styles.

Poor construction may be another reason for the sale price A portion of the item may be cut wrong or seams may be ripping If you sew you may be able to correct the flaws easily.

Antiquities, Modern Art Items To Go on Auction Block Nov. 11

Objects ranging from a first century A. D. Roman oil lamp to a football autographed by the Green Bay Packers will go on the auction block at 7 p.m. Nov. 11 in the Worcester Art Center at Lawrence University.

The auction is sponsored by the Appleton Society of the Archaeological Institute of America founded two years ago under Lawrence auspices and numbering many area residents in its membership. Proceeds will go to the national society for sponsorship of an archaeological expedition and other projects.

Daniel L. Arnaud, instructor in classics at Lawrence, is president of the local society, while John Vlossak, 1044 E. Eldorado St., is chairman of the auction. Herman Jennerjohn will serve as auctioneer.

Lamps, Coins

Antiquities to be auctioned include the first century oil lamp already mentioned; a second century Roman amphora recovered off the coast of Turkey; two Roman Occupation coins recently unearthed near Hastings, England; three 12th and 13th century Aztec and Zapotec clay vessels from Mexico and South America; and a leaf fossil embedded in stone.

Among the 19th century objects are an 1850 pistol, frosted and cut glass, sheet music, trade paperweights, tapestry wall hangings and a braided rug.

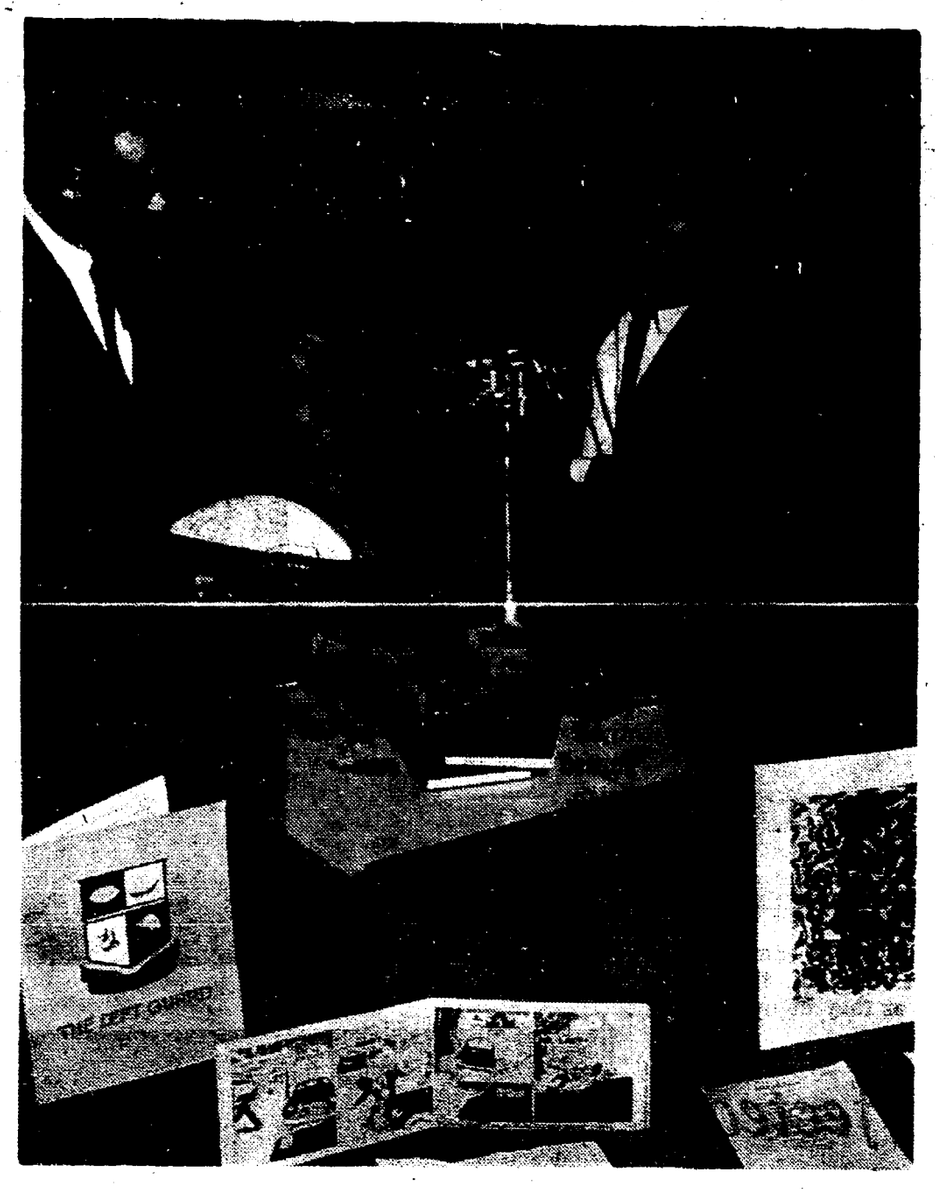
A group of autographed books have also been collected for the auction. They include autographed copies of books by Edward Baudry, Lawrence Professor Warren Beck, John W. Gardner, former Lawrence President Douglas M. Knight, Paul McKendrick, Kenneth Patchen, Bishop James A. Pike, former Lawrence President Nathan M. Pusey, William S. White (this volume autographed by President Lyndon Johnson), and poems by Richard Wilbur. There is also a translation of Aristophanes, autographed by the translator William Arrowsmith, and an autographed musical score by Norman Dello Joio.

Lawrence Artists

There will be an original cartoon by Virgil Partch and an original Dick Tracy comic strip, as well as works of art donated by Tom Dietrich, Collan Kneale, Dane Purdo, Carl Riter, Jerry Schwartz, Arthur Thrall (all past or present members of the Lawrence art department), Andrew Krance and John Vlossak.

In the miscellaneous category are a letter signed by then-Senator John F. Kennedy, dinners at various restaurants in the Appleton area, French lingerie, assorted laces, and circus posters.

It is expected that other objects will be added to the list before the time of the auction, which is open to the public.



Daniel Arnaud and John Vlossak are shown with some of the objects to be auctioned by the Appleton Society of the Archaeological Institute of America Nov. 11. They are holding a 19th century wallhanging. Arranged in the foreground are various antiquities, art objects and autographed books that will be put on the block.

Can You Talk Boy Talk?

BY SYLVIE REICE

It's a wise girl who knows what her boy friend is talking about. That is to say, there is such a thing as boy-language — the language of cars, sports, locker rooms, clothes — jargon and semi-technical talk that makes guys feel great when they're spinning it off.

Can you follow when your date gets that faraway look in his eye and lapses into chit-chat about tweeters, pistons and Windsors? Here's a quiz to test your B.I.Q. (Boy's Interests Quotient). A high score will show you're well-rounded and knowledgeable, too. So get with it — don't let another language come between you. Learn boy-talk and watch how much more he'll suddenly have to say to you.

1) When he says he needs a tune-up, does he mean a) a vitamin shot b) a guitar string c) a motor check-up.

2) He says he needs a tweeter. You'll buy him a a) bugle 2) small English bike c) high frequency speaker.

3) He admires Freddie Lorenzen — who happens to be a a) famed quarterback b) famed stock car driver c) famed race-car driver.

4) He says he had trouble with his Windsor, which is a) his tie knot b) his English car c) his English guitar.

5) Yesterday he got a valve job. Does that mean he's a) working in a valve company b) had his car valves fixed c) is a valve salesman.

6) When he mentions split end, is he talking about his a) summer-ruined hair b) a position in football c) a broken car part.

7) He complains about his woofer. He's referring to his a) collie dog b) bass speaker c) winter muffler.

8) He says he's crazy about fly-casting. That means he likes a) baseball b) insect-collecting c) fishing.

9) He's saving for a new piston ring. Will he buy it in a) jewelry store b) hardware store c) garage.

10) He's dying to see Darlington. It's a a) a prize-winning film b) stock-car racing track c) English rock 'n' roller.

11) He says he's great at unweighting. Does he mean a) reducing b) lifting bar-bells c) skiing.

12) He says he'd like to go chumming. Does he mean a) go out with the boys b) bait-fishing c) skiing on sand.

13) He asks you to go to the rally with him. That's a a)political gathering b) a car race c) a football game.

14) Did he say "bridge stick"? He did. And it is a) a score-card in bridge b) a gadget in pool c) a radio part.

15) He can't get over Jim Ryun's record Is Ryun a a) folk singer b) track champion c) baseball player.

Answers: 1-c; 2-c; 3-b (he drives for Ford); 4-a; 5-b; 6-b; 7-b (hi-fi talk); 8-c (a form of fishing where you whip the line up and back); 9-c (a washer that keeps gas from leaking); 10-b (a famous site in South Carolina), 11-c (shifting weight in skiing); 12-b (fishing from a boat, throwing bits of bait into the water to attract fish); 13-could be a or b — depending on the guy . . . the rally (b) is an official race set up by the Sports Car Club of America; 14-b, 15-b (19-year-old boy who just broke the 4-minute mile track record)

You may think dunking for apples on Halloween is for the kids — but once girls depended on apples to help them divine the names of their future husbands . . . Two days before Halloween girls peeled an apple — all in one piece, took the peel in their right hand, held it over their left shoulder. The initial the peel formed on the floor when the girl dropped it indicated her future husbands initial. Try it at your next party.

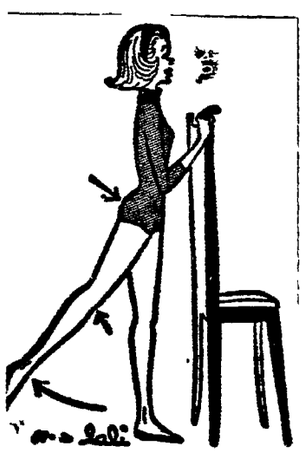
A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Quickie Reducer



Most times you can look in the mirror and see what, if anything, is wrong with your figure. But there's one fault that can confuse you, and that is padding high on the hips.

Somehow the flesh overlaps your waistline, more so with than without a girdle. So you wonder whether the trouble is really in the hips or in the waist.

Well, there's news for you: it's in the hips A girdle simply flattens the hippy weight and the excess overflows into the waist. The immediate answer is a new girdle or a corselet constructed to deal specifically with the problem. Such garments are not a rarity.

For a long-term solution, the only course is a course of spot-reducing exercises. This one is both effective and quick:

1. stretch out, back down, on floor; extend arms at shoulder level and raise legs perpendicular to floor. As legs swing up, center weight on topmost part of hips. Now rotate legs, as though pedaling a bike but with this difference — try to touch ceiling with toes and chest with knees. Continue for one minute, slowly and rhythmically. The idea is to massage off high-hip, not to wear down legs.

2. Stand and hold onto sturdy chair for balance. Alternately raise legs back and up, moving slowly and working for a squeeze in the high-hip muscles. Ten to twenty times.

Child's Development Can't be Hurried by Spanking, Reward

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR DR. JONES: My daughter is 4½ years old, and she still hasn't been toilet trained. My house is nothing but puddles and wet spots anywhere you go, and I can't even take her out because she wets anywhere and everywhere she happens to be. I have tried spanking and yelling, but it didn't do any good. I have also tried rewarding her with new panties, a new doll, and even a big tricycle but they haven't helped. I give her as much attention as I give my 2-year-old, and I have even tried treating her the same as I treat him, but with no results. She tries to use the toilet, but she can't. She tells others that she uses it, but the actual fact is that in four whole years she has only done that maybe three times.

We can't afford to go to a psychiatrist or a psychologist, so I hope you can help me do something about this myself. I feel ashamed of myself for punishing her so hard and especially for spanking her, but there are times when my patience just snaps, and I don't know what else to do. If you need any more information about her, I will be happy to give it to you. I should add that my two older children, 7 and 6, had some problem like this when each of them was about 4 years old. But they finally stopped when we promised them a nickle for every day they stayed dry. By the time they saved close to a dollar, we knew their problems were over. But my girl hasn't even made a nickle yet. MRS. C. C.

It's possible that your children have inherited a tendency to be slow developing bladder control. If so, it's silly to hope that spankings and rewards will speed up this development. Ask your physician to check your child's health carefully, with special attention to any other signs of delayed nerve development, or urinary disease.

Dear Dr. Jones: I have a 3½-year-old son who has a very negative attitude. Everything is either, "No, I don't want to, or "No, I won't."

A certain amount of this I expect, but he gives this answer to almost everything even though I try to keep from asking him to do anything that isn't absolutely necessary.

I thought by the time they're 3½ years old, children started getting over this, but he's worse now than he has ever been.

Can you give me any suggestions on how to cope with this?

Maybe your definition of "necessary" needs to be revised. It should only mean only those actions that keep him from hurting himself or others.

The frequent resistance that's a sign of healthy, growing independence natural in a toddler is usually a sign of trouble if shown by a 3-year-old. Without noticing it, you're probably failing to give your son all the freedom and opportunity to be responsible for himself that a child this age needs and can handle.

And you're probably asking him to do things that are "good" for him, rather than confining your requests to keeping him from doing "bad" things.

Keep a notebook and a pencil handy and write down every request and order you make to your son for the next two days. Send me that list along with a note telling me how you have disciplined him and how you have handled other demands like cleanliness, toileting, table manners, and picking up his toys.

Somehow you're making him feel that you want to boss his every action.

Once he's certain you'll let him make up his own mind about most things that concern only him, he will be able to be cooperative instead of refusing to meet your request.

The Ailing House

Forget Removing Wallpaper

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Our attic bedroom takes quite a beating from back-from-school guests. It's time for a repapering job for the wallboard. How do I go about it?

A: I suggest forgetting any ideas of removal. In the process of soaking or steaming the wallpaper paste, so the paper can be pulled off, the paper surface of the wallboard may be weakened, too. So it might come loose as well. Instead, why not put on a coat or two of paint, or another layer of wallpaper? While I've heard of some pretty silly ordinances against papering over paper, a man's house is still his castle. Most states, however, have other, more sensible things to do than think up ordinances like these.

Q. Our new home's fireplace and its entire wall are made of flagstone. It's most attractive except that all this stone is very dull. Is there any way to give those stones a brighter look?

A: If you like the result of this test, you'll have your answer: Generously wipe linseed oil on your test stone. Allow a couple hours to be absorbed, then wipe off all excess very carefully. Let dry for a week, then repeat. The result will be definitely a shade or two darker, but the stone will be brighter and more colorful.

Q. I would like to know something which is good for cleaning wood paneling, maple.

A: This will undoubtedly be one of the most controversial answers yet, because there are so many good products for this type of cleaning. Personally, if I can't get soilage off wood paneling with a sponge wrung out in fairly thick suds, use turpentine to make it say "uncle."

'Memorial Mixer' Fine Combination of Music, Conversation, Buffet Supper

Good food, interesting conversation and enjoyable music added up to what Appleton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary called a 'Memorial Mixer' Sunday evening. The informal but elegant party took place at the Home Mutual Insurance Co., building, with buffet supper and music by candlelight.

The cabaret style evening began at 6 p.m., with Gilbert Beglinger providing organ music as couples arrived. After the supper, Mrs. Frank Farver, accompained by Mrs. Beglinger, sang popular tunes and show music. There were also several piano duos. John Dixon acted as master of ceremonies and led community singing.

Handling reservations for the program were Mrs. Edward Zeiss, Mrs. Paul Cunningham and Mrs. John Dixon.

Mrs. C. Donald Genge and Mrs. B. J. Albrecht were general co-chairmen. Hospitality committee members were Mr. and Mrs. Genge, Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnum, Dr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Falk, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Fenlon, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Beck Fisher Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Podzilni, Mr. and Mrs. Arno Seifert and Mr. and Mrs. John Shepard.

The Supper Was Cabaret style and the evening was informal. Above, guests at the musical evening called a 'Memorial Mixer', help themselves from the buffet table. They are Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schreiner, Mr. and Mrs. John Mann and, seated, Mrs. Burt Beck Fisher Jr. At left, as the evening of music is about to get underway, are Mrs. Gilbert Beglinger, Mrs. Frank Farver and master of ceremonies John Dixon. 4 Roommates Should Switch Duties at Regular Intervals

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

Four girls fresh out of college will soon be working in a big city. Two of them will be responsible for the lease on a $190-a-month apartment — with electric, phone and gas extra.

Each of the girls will earn about $90 a week, before taxes.

Will you suggest a plan for general management for room and board, including expenses on the job? The girls will not have a car.

Mrs. R. M., Rochester, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. M:

The first thing this foursome ought to do is set up a plan of operation. Who's to be bookkeeper? Who handles the money and writes the checks? Who bosses the food shopping and menu planning? With four different temperaments involved, the household is going to need organization and discipline as well as money.

It might be a good idea for the girls to switch responsibilities at regular intervals — say every two months. This will mean more variety in meal-planning, plus a chance for each of them to practive the art of keeping house. Since there's an arduous as well as an artful side to stretching a dollar and washing a dish, turn about is only fair.

If living is going to be on a share-and-share-alike basis, the over-all monthly budget could be set up this way:

Rent, $190; gas, electric, phone, household expenses, $40;

Food, $146 (or $36.50 per girl); Laundry if sent out, $10. Total, $386—or $96.50 each

With a gross salary of $90 per week, take-home pay would be approximately $71.00. As for expenses on the job, each girl should tally up her transportation, lunches, clothing and upkeep, plus recreation, in addition to her contribution to running the apartment. These expenses will vary with the job, of course. After a few weeks of actual experience, she'll know how much she can allow for regular savings.

You use the term "room and board" in your letter. If this means that two of the girls (who are responsible for the lease) intend to be the "landlords", with the other two as tenants, then a suitable rental to charge would be from one-fourth to one-third of a week's take-home pay. In other words, from $76 to $100 a month.

Dear Miss Feeley:

Are there any benefits a veteran's dependent can apply for, to help him with his college education?

My husband is a disabled veteran — 100 per cent — due to a nervous condition incurred in World War II. He receives compensation. Our son wants to go to college if possible. Could you tell us how to go about applying for any aid that may be available?

Also, will the fact that the boy has $2,000 in trust which my father-in-law left him stop him from receiving any benefits from the Veterans Administration?

Mrs. B., Bronx, N. Y.

Dear Mrs. B:

There is financial assistance to be had — and your son's savings won't affect the situation.

Under the Veterans program, children of permanently and totally disabled veterans can receive $130 a month, if enrolled in school full time; $95 a month if three-quarters time; and $60 a month if half-time.

The parents must file an application with the Veterans Administration. If basic eligibility requirements are met, the application will be approved.

Lack of Cleanliness Can be Expensive

When passengers complain about dirty rest rooms, lax service, or unsmiling hostesses, Western Air Lines offers "flub stubs" worth $1 or more on redemption for merchandise or refreshments.

A well-scrubbed "face" is essential, even for an airline — pertinent proof that clean habits are noticeable, and lack of cleanliness can be costly.

Collector Has Easy Cleaning Method

A collector of china plates, which she displays with pride, reports on her method for keeping these treasurers clean.

Each week she washes one quarter of her collection, which now numbers 125 pieces. Thus, in the course of a month each plate is treated to a sudsing and returned to its place of honor — a sparkling conversation piece.

Great Player Must Show Sympathy

A great player is sympathetic when his partner goes down at a cold contract. Rather than chuckle or laugh out loud, our hero sheds a tear or two of sheer sympathy, clutching himself meanwhile in the region of the wallet North was a player in the great tradition when today's hand was played.

Declarer ruffed the opening heart lead with dummy's ace of spades, drew trumps with the king and queen, and then led a club from dummy

South lost the queen of clubs to West's king West got out safely with a diamond, and South eventually lost two more club tricks.

North was very sympathetic "A very unlucky hand," he complained "Both high clubs were in the wrong place Of course a halfwit would have made the hand anyway, but it was my luck that my partner was a nitwit"

Sympathy in the true bridge tradition.

North was right in his analysis: South could have made the contract despite the bad club break Find the right line of play for yourself before you read on

It was a splendid idea to ruff the first heart with the ace of spades South gets to his hand with the king of spades to ruff another heart and then draws another round of trumps with the jack of spades

South discards a diamond from dummy on the ace of hearts, cashes the top diamonds and ruffs his last diamond in dummy This strips all red cards from the North-South hands

Only now can declarer afford to lead the first club from dummy West wins with the king of clubs but cannot find a safe return If West leads clubs, South gets a club trick; and if West leads anything else, Dummy ruffs while South discards a club Either way the contract is unbeatable.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes You hold S—8, H—9 8 7 4, D—Q J 10 9 5, C—9 5 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts You have only 3 points in high cards, but you count an additional 3 points for the singleton and four-card trump support You can afford to raise with 6 points in support of partner's suit.

Your Problems

Mature Love Grows Slowly As Does the Mighty Oak Tree

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am only 13, too young for a boy friend and love and things like that. But wherever I go I see girls my age who have boy friends and they tell me they are in love.

My best friend, Peggy, is only six months older than I am Her folks let her invite her boy friend to dinner two and three nights a week. They go to movies and skating and bowling and shopping and even to church. He is a real nice kid, not wild or anything like that Peggy is a nice girl, too, but she has some awfully grown-up ideas.

I guess my problem is that I am envious. I need a boy friend When I see kids my age walking in the park holding hands and cuddling up to each other in the movies and sitting close together in cars I feel real out of it I want to love somebody and I want somebody to love me back Is it wrong or sinful to want this? Please explain my feelings to me. — Needing Answers.

Dear Needing: It is not wrong or sinful to want to be loved. But what you see is not love, my dear — it's chemistry at work.

Love is not holding hands in the park or sitting close together in cars. A 13-year-old girl can no more be in love than an oak tree can reach its full height in three weeks.

All living things need time to grow, to develop, to mature. Growing time cannot be rushed.

Peggy's parents have done her no favor by allowing (or should I say encouraging) such adult privileges. Unfortunately, some parents cave in to the pressures of their children who want to grow up too soon — and this is why nearly 50 per cent of all teenage marriages go pfttt within five years.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son and his wife have just given us "the word."

They have taken over a friend's season football tickets so we will be seeing them — or I should say their children — a good bit this year.

Landers

Jane and Jim live in a nearby town The football routine goes like this: They bring their three small children (youngest four years old) to Nonna and Boomppa. (That's me and my husband.) Usually Jane and Jim are in such a hurry to get to the stadium that they can't even have a cup of coffee with us Just before Jane rushes out the door, she hands me a list of Do's and Don'ts as well as a menu, so I will know what to feed the children. (She forgets I raised her husband and four others.)

The children are poorly disciplined and they get into everything. I have arthritis and must go on double medication when they are here. Please tell me how to deal with this problem. I know of other grandparents who have it too, but no one can come up with a workable solution. Above all, I want to continue to have a good relationship with my daughter-in-law. Can you help me? — Nonna

Dear Nonna: This is a good relationship? Sorry, but I see no evidence in your letter to support that statement. I have long since decided that people who allow themselves to be imposed on must like it or they'd do something about it.

While some aspects of this situtation are exhausting and annoying, you still enjoy the feeling that you are needed. So be honest with yourself and face the facts. You like it and you Don't like it. But you like it more than you don't like it.

New 'Melody-Grams'

Automated Greetings Replace Singing Wires

NEW YORK (AP)—It all began when Lucille Lips phoned Rudy Vallee at a New York night club and sang: "Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday, dear Rudy." You know the rest

Now automation is taking over the field pioneered by Miss Lips in that 1933 phone call, when she warbled Western Union's very first singing telegram.

Henceforth, singing telegrams need not be rendered by tinny tenors, squeaky sopranos or cracked contraltos They all can reel smoothly off your phonograph in the rich baritone of John Gorman Western Union's new automated greetings, called Melody-Grams, come in 10 different messages, each with lyrics appropriate to some special event, on 33 1-3 rpm records.

"Happy Birthday to You" still leads the hit parade, but you also have a choice of "Eveything's Coming Up Roses," "Little Boy Congratulations," "Little Girl Congratulations" "Hello Dolly," "Love and Marriage," "Anniversary Waltz," "Do I Love You," "I Wish You Love" and "I Want to Communicate With You."

Performed in bouncy rhythms and lively lyrics, the records are accompanied by a large greeting card and a five-word personal message At $3 for immediate coast-to-coast delivery or $2 25 for next-day delivery, they are a slightly larger investment than the old-style telegram where the operator dials and then serenades you over the phone That service will be continued, however, at the same rate—the regular telegram charge plus 50 cents for "special handling"

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Homemade Piggy Bank Use Talcum Powder Box

BY CAPPY DICK

With Christmas gift-giving time drawing near, many boys and girls are finding it a good idea to increase their savings. A homemade piggy bank (Figure 3) may prove very helpful in storing away extra cents, nickels and dimes.

Find an empty talcum powder can or similar container. With a hammer and chisel, cut a slit in the sprinkler top as shown in Figure 1. Make it large enough to receive the biggest coins you intend to drop into the bank.

Cut a piece of colored paper large enough to glue around the sides of the can to hide any printing. This may be gift wrapping paper, colored construction paper or a scrap of wall paper.

When you want to remove coins from the bank, simply lift off the complete top.

Shondells to Perform In Appleton Sunday

Recording Stars Led by Tommy James Appearing at Both Cinderella, Ivanhoe

BY JINGO

Tommy James and the Shondells, a recording group which traveled an unusual road to stardom, will appear at two Appleton establishments Sunday.

The recorders of "Hanky Panky," a genuine "sleeper" that sold over a million and was No. 1 on trade charts earlier this year, will appear from 2-5 p.m.

at the Cinderella Ballroom for an under-18 dance at which no alcoholic beverages will be sold. The group will then transfer its gear to the Ivanhoe, a teen bar at 1216 E. Wisconsin Ave., for an evening performance. Doors will open at 7 p.m.

At the Ivanhoe appearances, an Illinois group, the Knights of Day, will also play. The quartet is playing the Ivanhoe for one week.

The story of "Hanky Panky" began with its recording in October, 1964. As is the case with most singles by unknowns, it went nowhere. James and his group, however, managed success on a regional basis, in and around Pittsburgh.

Then, earlier this year, 18 months after the song was recorded, a Pittsburgh disc jockey, following favorable reaction to in-person versions of it, pulled the single out of his station's files and the reaction was immediate. Calls came in asking about the song, which features the line "My baby does the hanky panky" over and over, and before long Tommy had a local hit.

The interest in the single, which was released nationally on Roulette Records after the Pittsburgh success, spread like the proverbial wildfire. It didn't stop until reaching No. 1 slots in all major trade publications and was eventually certified by the Record Industry Association of America (RIAA) as a million seller.

Offers for network television appearances arrived from Dick Clark ("Where the Action Is") and Ed Sullivan. The subtleties of the record industry had finally paid dividends for James.

Then came the problem of following up the first hit. James released "Say I Am (What I Am)" from the album which followed "Hanky Panky" and the new single made it to the top 30.

Just two weeks ago, the sextet released its third single, "It's Only Love," a lively number which contrasts vastly with the first two hits and featured female chorus and an orchestra. The new 45 has started to move, as it sneaked into the top 100 of Billboard Magazine this week at No. 96. It shows signs of being another top 30 items.

The patient person will not always be rewarded in popular music, but an 18-month wait for Tommy James and the Shondells has proven worth the time.

Little Girls Can be a Problem

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 4-5 — Lots of people follow each other in Daniel Boone as Fess Parker and Ed Ames find a tiny Negro girl (Lila Perry) clinging to a log and try to track her parents who are leading escaped slaves to freedom in Canada. Tracking our heroes is a pair of slave hunters, and tracking everyone: Huron Indians, on whose "haunted" grounds much of the action takes place.

* * *

7-7:30 Channels 11-6-9 — Forrest Tucker plays not only his regular F Troop role as Sgt. O'Rourke, but also his father, O'Rourke Sr. The old man has more than a touch of blarney to his tongue as he takes over Fort Courage by having it painted green, teaching the cook how to make Irish stew and Wrangler Jane how to get a man. O'Rourke Jr. is out on a mission, and none of the troop is able to find him to tell him dear old dad is around — not Lewis, not Clark, not Gilbert, not Sullivan, etc.

7:30-8:30 Channels 4-5 — A violent man comes aboard Star Trek's Enterprise in a crate being transported from a penal colony run by eminent, humane Dr. Adams (James Gregory). Kirk (William Shatner), an admirer of the doctor, goes to the colony to investigate. While he and a psychiatrist (Marianna Hill) are there, the man on the ship keeps babbling of danger to Kirk and a horror machine called a "neural neutralizer."

8-9 Channels 2-7-12 — You may not get to sleep right away after watching "Fail Safe" on The Thursday Night Movies. It's a very well done thriller about a world on the brink of accidental nuclear destruction. Henry Fonda plays the President of the U.S., with Dan O'Herlihy, Walter Matthau, Fritz Weaver, Larry Hagman, Frank Overton and Edward Binns all giving fine performances.

8:30-9 Channels 11-6-9 — That Girl is in good humor with another flashback tale in which Marlo Thomas tries to explain why she is in jail in a scanty leopard skin outfit, and why she thinks a bunch of gangsters are nice men. Seems she was replacing a friend for a night in a club called "The Cave," and was so self-conscious in her costume "a nice man" who says he is a "furrer" suggests to her boss that she be put in a private dining room. And that's where a junior-grade Mafia meeting is taking place.

9-10 Channels 11-6-9 — Hawk has an intriguing murder mystery that should keep viewers guessing. Set against the mod world of fashion, the victim is Sisterbaby, a luscious creature in shimmering pants (Jane Zachary), who is shot during a party to celebrate the opening of a new shop. As Burt Reynolds investigates he learns she did did not have a southern accent, was/was not married. But she was definitely involved with a press agent, an artist, a designer, and a supper club singer who has hit the bottle. Joan Crosby, of the TV SCOUT staff, plays a photographer in the opening party scene.

9-10 Channels 4-5 — Highlights of The Dean Martin Show are provided by Ray Bolger's touching rendition of "Men in My Little Girl's Life," and Nanette Fabray as Cinderella singing "Minute Waltz," while trying to woo the prince in just that amount of time. Louis Armstrong tootles "Mame," and Lainie Kazan sings "Trolley Song" and "What Now My Love." As usual, Dean winds up with the punchlines for jokes.

Pope May Seek Christmas Truce

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican circles think Pope Paul VI will appeal for a Christmas truce in Viet Nam again this year.

Vatican circles said they considered a papal call for another cease-fire likely. They said although the Pope was disappointed that the cease-fire last Christmas did not become permanent, the pontiff was deeply satisfied that even a temporary pause in the bloodshed had taken place.

U.S. and South Vietnamese military leaders responded to the Pope's appeal last Christmas with a 30-hour cease-fire and, subsequently, a 37-day pause in American bombing of North Viet Nam while Washington pressed a campaign to get Hanoi to the conference table.

$15,419,324 City Budget Given Preliminary Okay

Mayor Criticized Too

Buckley Blasts School Budget

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An irate but composed Mayor George Buckley blasted the Appleton School Board again Wednesday night, charging it with attempting to ram its $5.9 million budget ". . .down the throats of taxpayers."

And, the mayor himself came in for stinging criticism from Ald. John MacDonald (7th) who said Buckley was attempting to incite people to differences of opinion.

MacDonald alsp rapped Buckley for previous verbal attacks he has made on the school board and some of its members personally, contending the finance committee's record calling for deletions spoke for itself.

However, Buckley and the council in general got in the last words on how the board of education should be handled with regard to its present and future fiscal policy and new school building construction plans.

Children Used

Buckley was particularly incensed that public school children were used Wednesday to distribute what he termed "school board propaganda."

Boys and girls were given leaflets announcing a citywide Parent-Teacher Association meeting scheduled tonight. Representatives of the school board and administration were scheduled as panel members, discussing the 1967 school budget.

In a prepared statement read at the start of the council meeting, Buckley noted the citywide PTA meeting had been called and charged that its "well-meaning members are going to be brainwashed."

Buckley said the brainwashing would be on what "meat" could come out of the school budget instead of what items of "fat" that could be cut in order to meet the finance committee's deletion from, what the mayor described as, ". . .the overloaded school budget."

"I caution you gentlemen to be prepared for a barrage of phone calls and letters from citizens who are well-meaning in the main and sincerely believe that the education of their children will be seriously affected by the deletion," Buckley said.

Buckley View

"I urge you to explain the facts to these earnest people who have been innocent victims of the old theory: 'Tell a big lie often enough and it will soon be truth in the minds of most'," Buckley declared.

He criticized the school board for . . . "marshalling its forces to get help in ramming their budget down the throats of Appleton taxpayers. .".

Buckley claimed PTA members were being "used."

"It is truly unfortunate that some individual members of the PTA do not realize that the school board is using them to get its budget through the council," Buckley said.

The mayor said he had high hopes Appleton residents will "resist these blandishments."

Explain Reasons

"For those who won't," Buckley declared, "I ask the council to take the time to explain the reasons to them for the deletion."

Buckly, who commended the finance committee at the conclusion of 1967 budget hearings and said he would stand behind it on all recommendations, told

$3.86 Tax Boost Likely In Appleton

Preliminary approval was given a $15,419,324 budget by the Appleton Council Wednesday night to operate all municipal departments and the public school system in 1967.

It calls for a $7,612,350 tax levy and represents an increase of $2 46 in the rate.

Yet to be added is the county and state levy which is expected to boost the rate by another $1.40, making the total increase for the coming year $3.86 per $1,000 assessed valuation. The tax rate cannot be set until the county and state levies are received. The final rate also will be affected by the state sales tax share.

A property owner with a $10,000 assessment will be paying $38 60 more in taxes for the coming year under the proposed budget.

Publish Budget

The council instructed City Clerk Elden Broehm to have the budget published and set the public hearing date for Nov. 16. For the most part, aldermen went along with recommendations of the finance committee which reviewed all budgets two weeks ago.

Originally, the city was faced with $16.167.488 in budget requests which would have called for a tax rate hike of more than $8 excluding the county-state levy.

The finance committee deleted what it considered all nonnecessity items and equipment replacements, coming up with a cut of $444,272 from various general city operation budgets and $296.000 from board of education requests.

A breakdown of the proposed levy (money to be collected by taxes) allocates $4,349 540 for school purposes and $3,262.810 for general city operations, including other departments, boards, agencies and commissions.

Informal Discussion

Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), finance chairman, presided over last night's committee of the whole meeting in which aldermen informally discussed the recommended budget and made some adjustments.

Tews opened the session by telling the aldermen to make their opinions known and cited that the city was in an era in which fiscal restraint has become evident.

Tews said it appears the committee may have made some unpopular decisions but felt the deletions and proposed budget kept the tax rate from skyrocketing and represented a sound approach to overall city operations in 1967.

Before the budget review started, Charles Buchanan Jr., school board president, thanked the finance committee for compiling a list of suggested areas where cuts might be made in budget requests for the schools.

Disagrees With Cut

Buchanan said the school board appreciated the cooperation it has received from the

Highlands School Bids Total $1,061,323; Below Estimate

Utschig Firm Low on Building; $11 Apparent Square Foot Cost

Total base bids for the proposed Highlands Elementary School are $1,061,323, about 12 per cent less than the original estimate, according to apparent low bids opeend Wednesday.

This means that the cost per square foot, originally estimated at $12.67, will be just under $11.

The apparent low bidder for the general contract was Theo. Ustchig and Son Inc., Appleton, with a bid of $635,000; painting contract, Josten Co., Milwaukee, with a bid of $26,000; plumbing contract, Superior Plumbing, Milwaukee, with a bid of $93,877; heating contract, R. Wenzel Co., Appleton, $143.883; electrical contract, Hewitt Electric, Appleton, $119,990; elevator contract, Otis Elevator, Chicago, $12,537, and folding partition and door contract, School Equipment Construction, Milwaukee, $29,936.

According to the bid submitted by Ustchig, it will take 300 construction days to complete the school.

Schutte, Phillips and Mochon, architects, will get 6 per cent of the construction cost.

Alternatives Given

Alternatives were mentioned for some of the contracts which could lower the total cost. The heating and ventilating contract could be lowered by $8,250 by deleting such items as a chiller, condenser and a chiller pump; and $3,500 more by omitting some fixtures from the electrical contract.

The architects will study the bids and submit their report at a special board meeting Monday night.

Except for Otis Elevator Co., all contractors furnished bonds.

The school will be of brick and concrete and include an orthopedic wing with a swimming pool; 28 classrooms; a combination science and crafts room, a library, music room, a combination stage-gym-dining area, shower and dressing room, health center, speech therapy room, testing room, kitchen storeroom, teachers' lounge and an office suite.

Former Mayor's Gavel Presented To His Widow

KAUKAUNA — A gavel made for the late Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon by William Rogers, Fifth Ward alderman, was mounted into a plaque by members of the council recently and presented to his widow and family.

In making the presentation, Mayor Gilbert Anderson stated, "It has sounded the roll call of many councils, the call to prayer of many meetings and sounded the call for order when order was needed. It represents the man who once held it—his integrity — his usefulness of purpose and the authority of his convictions.

"May it symbolize to you, as it has to us, the earned political endeavors of your husband — his dedication to a city which he loved, and his extreme desire to serve a people both young and old which he represented for so many years.

"May you keep this always as the City of Kaukauna's symbolic memory of your late husband — Joseph F. (Doty) Bayorgeon."

Wisconsin Avenue Change Proposed

Planners to Present Report on Commercial Development, Zones

A special commercial development plan for all or parts of blocks on either side of Appleton's Wisconsin avenue between Richmond and Oneida Streets will be recommended at a meeting tonight. The aim is to insure orderly business development and adequate off-street parking for the area.

The proposed plan will be presented at a 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Integrity Mutual building for members of the Northside Advancement Association, and other property owners in the affected areas.

The new plan was prepared by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, and Walter Rasmussen, Appleton city planner. Rasmussen and Eugene Franchett, executive director of the Fox Valley Commission, will explain the proposed changes.

Residential Zoning

Wisconsin Avenue presently is zoned commercial to a 120-foot depth on each side. The remaining portions of the blocks on either side now have residential zoning.

Rezoning in accord with the new plan will create a more functional and attractive business district on Wisconsin Avenue, the planners' report will say, preventing the scattering of complementary businesses and encouraging orderly planning.

Off-Street Parking

The new zoning proposals call for allowances for adequate off-street parking adjacent to business places. Blocks that face Summer Street would be required to observe a 75-foot building setback on all new construction to allow for parking or developers could set aside a like amount of parking space elsewhere on a new building site, the report says.

Traffic congestion on Wisconsin Avenue would be reduced by the off-street parking provisions, Franchett and Rasmussen said.

Density of business usage in the rezoned areas would be controlled to minimize conflicts with residential property on the south side of Summer Street will also be recommended.

Cat Proposal, Parking Report Treated Harshly

Feline Ordinance Waste of Time, Alderman Charges; Suggestions of Planners Criticized

While not related, a proposed cat regulation ordinance and the report of the city planning commission, received harsh treatment from the Appleton Council Wednesday night.

The welfare-ordinance committee recommendation that the city attorney prepare a cat ordinance was referred back to committee by Ald. John MacDonald (7th).

MacDonald said the council had not authorized preparation of such an ordinance by resolution and questioned the committee's authority to proceed.

"The council has not asked for this ordinance and until it does we shouldn't waste the city attorney's time," MacDonald said.

Report Questioned

The parking commission report was riddled by aldermanic criticism and questions with all but one item referred back for further deliberation.

Ald. R. P. Groh (8th), spoke against the proposal of the joint city-county committee which has been delegated to obtain information and estimates on the cost of obtaining some residences north of the courthouse.

The plan is to raze them and construct street level parking lots.

"What you would be doing is to split a residential block in half with parking lots," Groh said, "It lacks taste and judgment." He had the matter referred back.

Soldier Square

Getting the same treatment was the reaffirmation of an original commission recommendation to meter the Soldiers Square parking structure.

A proposal to increase the pay of Parking Meter Supt. Donald Heinritz, whom aldermen claimed received a sizeable salary adjustment recently, was also sent back to the commission. The latest increase would be $140 a month.

It would boost the meter superintendent's salary from $435 to $575 a month.

Ald Paul Klemmer (11th) noted the job of superintendent was given Heinritz not too long ago, adding that 30 others had sought the position. He questioned the need for the sudden pay raise.

Five Chain Stores To be Boycotted By Appleton Unit

Fifteen representatives of the Appleton area Housewives for Lower Food Prices decided to boycott five major chain stores in the area beginning Nov. 14, according to Mrs. Betty Milheiser, spokesman for the group.

The boycott will be in protest of "coupons, gimmicks, and so forth," Mrs Milheiser said.

The group, meeting at Mrs. Milheiser's home Wednesday, also decided to boycott baked bread and coffee. The food items will probably be boycotted beginning Nov. 14, Mrs. Milheiser indicated.

"Baked bread contains 151 hidden taxes or subsidies," she said, and we should find out what the programs are."

"We're going to boycott baked bread and I guess the ladies are going to go back to baking their own until we get these 151 answers," said Mrs. Milheiser.

Kaukauna Driver Faces Tipsy Charges, Asks For Different Judge

Michael C. Grissman, 68, 318 W. Third St, Kaukauna, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 this morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicants.

He filed an affidavit of prejudice against County Judge Gustave J. Keller who ordered $250 bond and continued the case for assignment to another judge. Grissman was in jail in lieu of posting bond.

Kimberly police arrested Grissman Wednesday.

Fine Appleton Man $75 On Disorderly Charge

David M. Janssen, 23, 1917 S. Jefferson St., was fined $75 and costs after he was found guilty Wednesday of a disorderly conduct charge following an investigation by Outagamie County authorities.

Janssen allegedly became involved in a fight and used profane language while at the KK Sports Arena near Kaukauna July 2. He had pleaded innocent, but before trial Wednesday, changed his plea to no contest, and was found guilty by County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Persons who have not previously registered to vote cannot vote in this election, but registration can be made for future elections.

Judge Finds Appleton Driver Was Speeding

Theodore G. Dietzen, 22, 360 Greenwood Road, Wednesday was found guilty of speeding 42 miles an hour in a 25 zone on N. Richmond Street Oct. 22.

The trial, without a jury, was held before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller who fined Dietzen $35 and costs. Appleton police made the arrest about 3 a.m.

Man Collapses on Street in Appleton

Raymond Ressel, 36, 400 S. Lee St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by the Appleton Fire Department rescue squad after he collapsed about 10:10 p.m. Wednesday near the corner of Walnut and Lawrence streets.

Bidding This Month

Council Gives Go-Ahead to Avenue

It's official: Bids for reconstruction of College Avenue will be taken by the city later this month and opened in December.

The Appleton Council gave the go-ahead Wednesday night and also approved several related items.

The facelifting of the avenue will begin next April and is being timetabled for completion by Nov. 1.

The city intends to award the overall general construction contract to one concern, making it responsible for the entire project.

College Avenue will be torn up with all underground facilities replaced. There will be a new paved street, sidewalks, updated lighting and landscaping.

Ask Financial Proof

The council ordered that prospective bidders file a bidders' proof of financial responsibility, especially for the College Avenue project.

In connection with the street lighting program, bids will be taken on aluminum poles with twin arms, transformers, light fixtures and lamps.

Specifications for the avenue project will provide for a $1,000 bonus-penalty clause, which officials said, will be of benefit to the city and contractor in expediting the work.

It was also agreed to authorize the contractor to close basement entrances to abandoned areas beneath sidewalks, doing so when requested by property owners. The position was taken it would be cheaper for the owner to have the city do the fill work.

Other Action

And the city engineering division was asked to contact some industries in the "industrial flats" with regard to establishing a bulkhead line along the south bank of the Fox River, using excavated material and rubble from the avenue reconstruction.

In other action, the council:

—Received and filed a sewage disposal problem report received from the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission.

—Purchased seven portable stretchers for the police department for assignment to patrol vehicles.

—Told the city's special land acquisition committee to negotiate a property exchange with the YMCA.

—Rejected the offer of Engel Realty to sell 34 5 acres of land between Lilas Drive and Blue mound Road for $100,000.

—Took under advisement the restoration of $12,500 to the 1967 city street-lighting fund.

Appleton Youth Fined $25 on Speeding Charge

Robert G. Schultz, Jr., 19, 924 E. Glendale Ave., arrested by Outagamie County police July 6 in the Town of Grand Chute, was found guilty Wednesday afternoon of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50 zone on County Trunk A.

The case was heard in Outagamie County Court Branch 1 before Judge Urban P. Van Susteren. Schultz had filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Gustave J. Keller when he pleaded innocent.

Trial on three Appleton Police department charges against Schultz was continued to Nov. 11.

He is charged by city police with running over a fire hose at College Avenue and Appleton Street on Dec. 29; operating an auto with a fauity exhaust system in the 300 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue Jan. 7, and disorderly conduct in the 100 block of N. Morrison Street.

The disorderly conduct charge was brought after police said Schultz used profane language to a policeman who asked to see his driver's license.

Consider Abolishing Post of Undersheriff

Controversial Chief Deputy Job To be Considered by Outagamie

The position of Outagamie County undersheriff will go on the block again when the county board meets next week.

Another attempt will be made by a group of supervisors to abolish the undersheriff post and replace it with a chief deputy who would be appointed by the board's executive committee subject to approval by the county board.

It is the first attempt to abolish the job of undersheriff since the sheriff and traffic departments were merged under the sheriff by board action last July. However, several earlier attempts to abolish the post met with defeat after considerable debate on the board floor.

Spice Opposes

Such a move has been strongly opposed by Sheriff Calvin L. Spice. The present undersheriff is Norbert J. Marx.

The latest resolution, filed with County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer, is not signed as yet.

The resolution calls for the employment of "full-time services of a professionally trained police officer and administrator." The man selected for the job would be "a person with adequate training and background to qualify in assisting the county's traffic police in establishing and continuing professionalized police services and programs."

The chief deputy would assume duties Jan. 1. He would not be under Civil Service regulations, but would be appointed from a list of candidates who would take a State Bureau of Personnel competitive examination.

List of Candidates

A certified list of successful candidates would be given the executive committee which would nominate a man for the new job. The county board would act on the executive committee's recommendation.

To qualify for chief deputy, a person would not necessarily have to be a Wisconsin resident, but would have to be at least 35 years old. He would be in pay grade 21, which has a $620 to $785 salary range.

The chief deputy, according to terms of the resolution, would not be entitled to leave of absence to become a candidate for public office. If he circulated or filed papers for public office, he would automatically vacate his law enforcement position.

The resolution is expected to spark strong debate.

Berlin Police Chief Ordered Reinstated by County Court

GREEN LAKE (AP)—Circuit Judge Jerold E. Murphy ordered today that Berlin Police chief Germain Beck, suspended by the city's Police and Fire commission last June 4 after a hearing on alleged misconduct, be reinstated.

The court declared that "the record does not give the impression of a fair and impartial inquiry. The proof as to the specifications, charges, findings and conclusions falls considerably short of what this court would consider as essential..."

However, Judge Murphy noted that performance of the chief's duties by Beck, who has been on the Berlin force 19 years, was "not apparently satisfactory to the elected and appointed officials of the City of Berlin," but termed the charges against him "unreasonable."

Beck originally was accused on 12 counts, but the commission dismissed three. He then appealed to Circuit Court.

Budget Issue to be Aired

Voters to Hear Views of Council, School Board

Mrs. Arch Hoffman, president of the League of Women Voters of Appleton, announced tonight's candidates meeting of the LWV of James Madison Junior High School will be extended to include a discussion of the school board budget.

Charles Buchanan, president, and Dr. Roy Whitney will present the school board's position. The Appleton city council finance committee will be represented by Aldermen Alvin Tews and John MacDonald.

Fifteen minutes will be allotted to each side for formal presentations. An audience question period will follow the discussion.

The candidates meeting starts at 8 p.m today. Candidates for assembly and Outagamie County sheriff will be heard as scheduled, Mrs. Hoffman said. The school budget will be discussed after candidates speak.

Mrs. Hoffman said today, "I am delighted that these gentlemen can take time from their busy schedules to present both arguments on this issue to the people of Appleton."

Price Protests Said to be Misguided

Co-Op Manager Tells Jaycees Labor Is Key Food Cost Factor

Increased labor costs and inflationary pressures are causing food prices to increase, Truman Torgeson, Manitowoc, manager of the Lake-to-Lake Dairy Co-operative, Kiel, told Appleton Jaycees and their outstanding young farmer program guests Tuesday night at Reetz's Supper Club.

Torgeson also is president of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Co-operatives, an advisery agency for the industry

The number of middlemen providing extra services has gained substantially in recent years and the cost "has got to be recouped somewhere," Torgeson contended.

Unbalanced Budgets

Unbalanced federal budgets are directly related to continuing inflation, he said.

Torgeson said the housewives' protest was largely due to a misunderstanding of the problems. He said the boycott was of concern to agriculture, particularly when prices received by farmers for their products are increasing.

For many years, he said, the farmer had to accept prices which were not in line with the rest of the economy. He considered the present misunderstanding as unfortunate, stating the situation may boomerang.

Build Bridge

He said there is need for understanding between the consuming public and agriculture He said prices farmers receive are still not on a level with the rest of the economy.

"The consumer today with his take home pay can buy more food than 15 to 20 years ago even at higher prices Food is still the best buy. Groceries cost less than gas for the family car," he said.

If the situation becomes too harsh, he warned, a stepped up exodus from the farms may result and sharply reduce the number available to produce food. Black market conditions also could develop, he said.

"Poems to be Read Aloud" was the book selected by Linda Gunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Leslie Gunter, 919 W Parkway, winner of the contest to guess the number of children in the summer reading program at Appleton Public Library. Linda, who also participated, was short 61 of the 2,743 total. Presenting the prize is Mrs. Aaron De Jardin (Post-Crescent Photo)

Support Goes to North

Neenah Councilmen Back Vocational Plan

NEENAH — The city council threw its support to the north in the current hassle on the makeup of the area vocational and technical school district.

With only one dissenting vote, the councilmen passed a resolution favoring joining a grouping of 23 school districts.

The Winnebago County board, just two days earlier, had passed a compromise resolution calling for a district along county lines and including Winnebago, Waushara, Waupaca and Outagamie counties.

Ald. Harry Miller, Fifth Ward, said he favored the resolution passed by the county board and claimed a committee selected by the county board "would be more concerned with the taxpayers' dollars" than school administrators.

There was no other discussion on the resolution and Miller's "no" was the only dissenting vote.

The council's resolution will be joined with a resolution from the Neenah board of education and the vocational and adult board to join the school districts of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kaukauna and Kimberly, plus 18 other school districts in the surrounding area into an area vocational, technical and adult school.

DDT Spraying Postponed For Neenah

NEENAH — The highly vocal opponents of the city's DDT spraying program succeeded in getting at least a week's "stay of execution" and chances are helicopters won't be hovering over the elm trees at all this year.

About a dozen persons attended the council meeting Wednesday urging the aldermen to reconsider the helicopter spraying program passed at the Oct. 19 council sessionl The opposition was armed with a half-dozen petitions containing about 200 signatures. They also had taken out half-page ads in both local papers to support their position.

Conference

Before opening the floor to public discussion of the controversial item, the councilmen quickly concurred with the opponents that any spraying should be delayed until after the Conference on Shade Trees in Madison on Nov. 9-10.

Mayor Carl Loehning insisted that public pressure had nothing to do with his attendance at the Madison conference, which will feature a panel of experts on Dutch Elm Disease and the use of insecticides

Unfair Practice Charges in Sixth District Race

NEENAH - MENASHA — Charges and countercharges of unfair campaign practices flew in the Sixth District congressional campaign today.

The harrangue started with a release from the office of incumbent Rep. John Race, Fond du Lac Democrat, which stated that a protest had been filed with the national Fair Practices Campaign Committee against challenger William Steiger's use of "a doctored tape recording of a statement made by President Johnson which is obviously taken out of context."

Race said he was "shocked to hear paid political radio announcements sponsored by Steiger's campaign committee which purported President Johnson to be saying about inflation — 'That's something you only have to worry about in Democratic administrations' "

Anti-UNICEF Pamphlets Sent To Teachers

MENASHA — Prin. Raymond Feit and sixth grade teachers Mrs Marion Kemmeter and Clifford Christensen received literature Wednesday charging that UNICEF is a propaganda device for the Communist Party and that public and private monies are not being used to feed children throughout the world

The pamphlets were a State of Washington summary publication called "Timber" and were mailed, it is believed, on the heels of the announcement that Banta School sixth graders were collecting for UNICEF on Halloween. (It has since been reported that they collected $192.50) The envelope bears the slogan "Get U.S. out of U.N and U.N. out of U.S." and was mailed in Ripon.

Lawrence Reports Theft From Church Basement

Several ornamental light fixtures reportedly were stolen over the weekend from the vacant Presbyterian Church at the corner of E College Avenue and Lawe Street.

The items were taken from the basement, according to Lawrence University officials. The university now owns the church building. The report was filed Wednesday.

School Board Sets Policy On Transfer

Policies on transfer of pupils within the Appleton City District Public School System have been outlined by the board of education.

Pupils are expected to attend the school located in the attendance center where they reside. Pupils who move from one attendance center to another must transfer immediately to the school in the new area of residence.

Under certain conditions, however, a pupil may choose to remain in his present school for the balance of that year. In these cases the parent must agree to arrange and finance transportation costs. Plans to remain must also be approved by the principal.

If a high school student moves from one district to another, following completion of the junior year, he may elect to complete the 12th grade in the same school in which he was enrolled as an 11th grader.

If he moves before the end of his junior year, he must enroll in the school of that area.

Elementary and junior high pupils may remain in the present school for the remainder of the year if they have been enrolled and in attendance for at least one quarter in the current school.

Neenah Council Gets Chance to Ham It Up Before TV Camera

NEENAH — City officials and aldermen had a chance to ham it up in front of a not-so-candid television camera Wednesday evening as a Green Bay channel representative arrived on the scene, apparently expecting good action in the current DDT versus Dutch Elm Disease squabble.

As the camera scanned the council chambers, the aldermen were all smiles and seemed to be concerned with putting their best face forward.

Clintonville Man Fined After Threatening Wife

WAUPACA — Walter Allen, 36, route 1, Clintonville, pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct and was fined $25 and costs Wednesday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court.

Refuse Disposal Study Hinges On Appleton

Complete Survey Recommended by Regional Planners

A study of urban disposal recommended by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission may not get beyond the planning stages without Appleton City Council approval.

Approval of the recommended study seems improbable, if not impossible since Appleton officials placed the report on file Wednesday without taking any action.

Aldermen said, however, they would supply engineering data for use by the commission.

Study Recommended

The refuse disposal study was recommended by the Fox Valley planners after a committee of engineers reported findings regarding existing and anticipated refuse disposal problems.

The commission reported that a complete study by an engineering consultanting firm would cost $18,000 to $20,00 A breakdown of the cost of a solid waste disposal program was made by Fox Valley planners and Appleton's assessment was estimated at $7,144, by far the largest assessment of any of the 12 member municipalities in the Fox Valley region.

Eugene Franchett, executive director of the Fox Valley group said, "solid waste disposal is a regional problem but it is the most serious in Appleton."

Major Operations

In conducting the preliminary study, the commission's committee said three major refuse disposal operations exist in the Valley at the present time.

The cities of Neenah and Menasha have a common incinerator at the sewage treatment plant. Appleton is currently using an open land fill dump north of the city. Kaukauna also is using an open dump and a crude incinerator, the committee said.

Committee reports went on to say the existing sites are inadequate to handle the volume of domestic and industrial waste. Urging a region-wide approach to the solid waste disposal problem, the commission recommended a complete engineering study for the entire urban region to include:

Detailed Inventory

—A detailed inventory and analysis of existing types and quantities of solid refuse materials.

—Projection of types and quantities to determine future needs.

—A feasibility study to determine the most economical and sanitary means of collecting and disposing of solid waste material.

—A feasibility study to determine the practicality of one or several disposal plants.

Assessment Breakdown

Appleton's assessment would have been 37.6 per cent of the total study cost. The Cities of Neenah and Menasha were to be assessed $3,021 and $2,052 respectively. The Town of Menasha was listed for an assessment of $1,596 and Kaukauna's share totaled $1,577. The rest of the cost sharing was divided among villages of Combined Locks, Kimberly and Little Chute, and towns of Buchanan, Grand Chute, Harrison and Neenah.

Franchett said the matter would come before the commission at its Nov. 10 meeting but indicated it was doubtful the study would be conducted without agreement by Appleton officials.

Irate Mayor Again Hits School Budget

aldermen he had been told to be careful about attacking the board's budget.

"It has been said that against the school board the voice of the council is but a tiny voice crying out in the wilderness," Buckley said.

"We have been counseled to avoid a fight over the school board budget."

'Time to Fight'

Buckley said he did not believe the statements to be either true or good advice, telling the members of the council, "Gentlemen, the time to fight has arrived."

At this point, MacDonald leveled his charges that statements by the mayor were unnecessary and "in poor taste," referring to Buckley's strongly-worded attacks.

"The finance committee did an honorable job and operated in a gentlemanly, businesslike fashion," MacDonald said. "There is no need to incite groups to swordpoints and I resent it."

MacDonald, a member of the finance committee and one of the leading advocates of economy in all phases of city government, including the schools, was told by Buckley he had no intention of inciting anything.

However, MacDonald retorted it was his personal opinion that it appeared this was the tack the mayor was employing and he did not subscribe to it.

Cuts in the school board budget were not the only matters the council took action on.

On the recommendation of the finance committee, the council approved items which aimed at "tightening" the board's spending policies and temper future school construction plans.

The council specifically asked the board of education to:

—Initiate a general survey of vehicle inventories and utilization for all city departments, boards and commissions.

—Furnish the city with the projected needs for new construction requirements for the next five years, including geographic and enrollment projections, and plans for closing of any existing schools.

—Provide the city next year with complete detail of budgetary requirements for each school in 1968 budget requests.

Discrepancies Alleged

This year was the first time the finance committee reviewed the board of education's general budget in addition to comparing the expenditures listed in it with those allocated for each school, various departments, and personnel.

Discrepancies were reportedly found in some account totals.

In addition to slicing requested monies for some capital outlays, the committee also noted the school board intended to hire more new employes than its teacher-per-pupil ratio and as a result recommended deletions of some positions.

It also took the $4,914,666 portion of the school board budget which includes administration, $109,324; instruction, $4,187,229; attendance, $24,732; and operation, $593,380: and recommended a 3.5 per cent cutback. This amounted to a $172,000 cut which the committee felt could be attained without jeopardizing the classroom education program.

At the same time, the finance committee emphasized that with the total $296,000 deletions, the school board's operating budget would still represent an increase in operating costs of $501,981 over the 1966 estimate, or an increase of 11 per cent. It said the total school load was increasing at a rate of about 6 per cent.

Two Injured in 3-Car Appleton Street Mishap

An Appleton father and his son were among three persons injured in two accidents on city streets Wednesday night.

Taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital following a three-car crash at S. Memorial Drive and W. Third Street were William C. Harpsichord, Violin

Lucktenberg Duo Plays In Concert at Lawrence

Music for the harpsichord and violin will ring out in Chamber Series concert by the Lucktenberg duo at 8 p.m. today in Lawrence University's Harper Hall.

Harpsichordist George Lucktenberg and his wife, Jerrie, a violinist, have listed a sonatina by John Boda, and the J. S. Bach Sonata in F minor on the first half of their program. Later, using piano and violin, they will play the Beethoven Sonata in C minor, Op. 30 No. 2, and the Ginastera Rhapsody, "Pampeana" No. 1.

The Lucktenberg's are the second of this season's Chamber Series artists. Veterans of concert tours, they are favorites of chamber music audiences for the unusual tone-color offered by their nine-foot Sperrhake harpsichord and a superb Stradivarius violin, dated 1718.

In the Lucktenberg's musical backgrounds are years of study Oberlin Conservatory, and the University of Illinois, where they met while earning master's degrees. Later, a Fulbright scholarship took them to Vienna, Austria, where each won the coveted Artist Diploma at the State Academy of Music.

Both are faculty members at Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C, though at present they are engaged in a research project at the University of North Carolina under a grant from the Ford Foundation. In the project, the two are collaborating in the preparation of an edition of Baroque sonatas for violin and harpsichord.

Preliminary Okay Given City Budget

council in the past, and pledged his group would continue to work with city officials to effect economies wherever possible.

He said the school board agreed with the finance committee's recommendation that $142,00 could be deleted from the capital outlay section of the board's budget. At its original hearing before the finance committee, the board said there were no areas that cuts could be made.

However, Buchanan said he could not agree with the additional cuts prescribed by the budget examiners, declaring, "I think they will seriously affect the education of our kids."

Buchanan said the school board has compiled a three-page list of items and programs that it would delete from its 1967 program if more than $142,000 were cut from the school's budget.

Special Meeting

He also said the board of education was holding another special meeting Monday night. Buchanan made no mention of the citywide PTA tonight at which he and Supt. of Schools William Spears, and other administrators, will outline programs the board intends to cut in 1967 because of being asked to trim its budget by $296,000.

However, Buchanan noted that bids for Highland elementary school, opened earlier in the day, were 11 per cent lower than estimated. "It shows the board is building low cost schools to be proud of," Buchanan said

Included in the citywide budget for next year is a $3.4 million allocation to cover interest and principal payments on the $12,545,162 bonded debt for schools and $9,822,838 long-term debt for other city purposes.

General salary increases for municipal employes — some now in the negotiation stage — are included in a lump sum in the budget. The board of education has also made salary increase adjustments by revising its pay schedule. It is currently meeting with representatives of custodians and bargaining for the coming year.

After considerable discussion, the council inserted $17,500 in the budget as half the cost of an engineering study for the proposed Oneida Street bridge, the latter to be built sometime after 1970. Proponents said the city needed the technical information now to tie in with land purchases and traffic and street layouts.

Originally, $35,000 had been included in the public works budget request but was deleted.

An appeal by Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) to appropriate money for an incinerator study followed, and the council decided the city's landfill program posed no emergency problem for the coming year. However, Thompson urged the city to start planning for a new municipal incinerator as soon as possible.

The College Avenue reconstruction is included in 1967 outlays.

Claim Filed Against Village For $37,000

Greenleaf Men Say They Were Injured by Little Chute Police

LITTLE CHTE — A claim for $37,000 against the village for alleged injuries and damages suffered by three young Greenleaf men in a scuffle with police at a Legion picnic last year was referred to the village attorney and insurance carrier Tuesday night.

The three claim they were roughed up by an auxiliary police officer on duty at the picnic, through a misunderstanding. They say they were not involved in the trouble which led to the altercation. No date has been set for filing of information in the proceedings.

Board members voted to purchase a sewer rodding machine from Flexitool Co. at a cost of $4,500 and authorized Bower Brothers Construction Co. to extend sanitary sewer and water main 175 feet on Sheridan Street. Cost of the work will be $8 per foot for sewer installation and $1.25 per foot for installation of a 6-inch water main.

The Kaukauna Electric and Water Utility was authorized to install a street light on Pine Street midway between Main Street and the church parking lot. Board members authorized reimbursement to Frank De-Bruin for a driveway apron on Lincoln Avenue after it was found DeBruin had paid for the installation work which is usually paid by the village at the time of street improvement.

Board members proclaimed the last week in November Voice of Democracy Week in keeping with a speech contest being sponsored in area schools by the Kaukauna Veterans of Foreign Wars. It also authorized the clerk to purchase a set of 1965 state statutes for use in the police department.

The U.S. and Malaysia

Presumably those who advised President Johnson on his Pacific itinerary took some time and care over whether to include Malaysia and Indonesia. The one was visited and the other not. But it is noteworthy that Malaysia is the only country in Asia where President Johnson visited that is not directly involved on our side in Viet Nam.

There were left wing warnings against the trip especially from Singapore, once part of the Malaysian Federation. There were some demonstrations in Malaya but either there was not much enthusiasm against the American involvement in Viet Nam or the opponents were kept securely under wraps.

Malaysia was included quite obviously because it had conducted a decade of war against Communist guerillas and with the help of British troops and advisors, it had succeeded in defeating the Reds and eradicating most Communist influence. The President pointed out this fact in his official speech in Kuala Lumpur. And just in case anyone should miss the similarity between Malaya's struggle and the American fight in Viet Nam, he went on to say that "your achievement in this respect, I believe, has the greatest significance for our struggle in Viet Nam today. You have shown that military action can stop Communist aggression and that while the aggression is being stopped — and even more strongly when it is stopped — the peace, as well as the war can be won."

There are a great many differences between the long struggle in Malaya and that now going on in Viet Nam. The Malayan fight never reached anything like the proportion of the war in Viet Nam. There were never more than a few thousand British troops. And of even greater importance there was never any large scale outside effort in behalf of the Communists.

It was the example of the Malay fight against the Communist guerillas that to a great part influenced American ideas on Viet Nam back when we sent only a few hundred advisors to Saigon. But the Malays long ago had greater cohesion as a nation than has yet come to Viet Nam. And its government after the end of World War II as England gradually released its hold never had to go through the vicious fight the Vietnamese waged against the French or the excesses of the Diem government at a later date. The Communist guerillas in Malaya probably could have taken over through sporadic raids and terrorism had it not been for the British help and leadership in opposing them. But they never had anything like the numbers under Communist discipline that now live in North Viet Nam.

The President's visit also seemed to be a further indication that the United States intends to pick up the outside reins of leadership in Malaysia as England vacates the role. British Liberal Government spokesmen have several times said they intend to withdraw military installations from everywhere east of the Suez. The Malaysia Federation, in large part conceived by the British, was intended to take away the need for British military assistance in that area by uniting several countries. Actually it temporarily led to a need for the continuance of British presence when Indonesia's Sukarno used it as a reason for his low level war against the federation. Now that wiser heads have taken over in Jakarta, the British probably can consider withdrawing once again, especially if the United States intends to fill the gap.

At this stage it is difficult to determine whether President Johnson's stop at Kuala Lumpur was wise or not. The government in Singapore would like to stay clear of Communist control but it must present left wing policies and to some extent anti-Americanism to stay in power. Certainly the President's trip to Malaysia will be construed by some in Singapore as a threat. On the other hand, Singapore's leadership does need some psychological bulwark against the ever-present threat of Red China.

The United States quite rightly has backed the efforts of new nations to throw off colonial shackles. But in Asia it begins to look as if we are going to pick up the burden of protection and support which the former masters for one reason or another have discarded.

Protests Against Sugar Subsidies

A group of housewives in the Fox Cities area are pinpointing their protest at higher food prices on sugar. It is not that sugar has increased in price greatly in recent months; they have read about the subsidies housewives are paying to sugar producers in this country and abroad. These subsidies are provided for in the so-called Sugar Act Amendment.

Rep. Paul Findlay of Illinois has been waging a personal campaign in Congress for repeal of the Sugar Act Amendment for some time now. He outlined his protest in an article in the June. 1966 Reader's Digest.

The Sugar Act was adopted originally in 1934, and ironically one of its original purposes was to help Cuba, whose economy then as now was collapsing.

Under the law no one can import, refine or sell sugar in the United States without permission of the United States government. It sets the wholesale price of sugar in this country at 6.5 cents per pound. This is generally considerably higher than the world price which at present averages about 2.5 cents.

A total of 31 foreign countries is approved for exporting sugar to this country, and their producers pocket the four cent differential. Domestic producers also profit from the pegged price.

Rep. Findlay charges that the sugar trade is a gold mine for lobbyists in Washington, and that they reaped fees totalling $350.000 when the act was extended in 1965 to the year 1971. There is a great competition among foreign sugar producing countries to secure beneficial import quotas.

The Illinois congressman suggests that domestic producers could be protected from foreign competition by a simple tariff act. In that case the federal government would collect taxes on sugar imports. instead of the American housewife paying an inflated price to subsidize the foreign producers. He has been begging for support of his position from the American housewife. Until now she has seldom spoken with an organized voice.

Emotional campaigns to boycott food stores can have only a temporary result at best in forcing food prices down. But an organized effort in support of Rep. Findlay at least has the prospect of lowering sugar prices.

What African Unity?

The Organization of African Unity, conceived mostly by Nkrumah before he lost his control over Ghana and most of his influence in Africa as well, is having tough sledding. The latest argument even against the title of the organization came in a dispute between Ghana and Guinea.

Nineteen Guineans, including the Foreign Minister, were on their way to a meeting of the Organization of African Unity when the plane touched down at the Ghanian capital. The nineteen wisely stayed on board the plane but that did not save them. The pilot was forbidden to take off and Ghana security police came on board and interned the nineteen.

They will be released, the Ghana government spokesmen said. when some 100 Ghanians, reportedly detained in Guinea, are allowed to come home. The detained Ghanians do not include ex-President Nkrumah, who was made Co-President of Guinea upon his deposement at home. Ghana officials claim that Ghanians were being trained as subversive agents in Guinea and some were even given false passports so they could pretend to be representatives of the new government and upset the Organization of African Unity meeting in Addis Ababa.

Now the newly arrived American Ambassador to Guinea has been placed under house arrest because the other president of Guinea. Sekou Toure, claims that the United States was behind the Ghanian move against the Guineans. At this point every side is demanding that the other side do something first before it takes any conciliatory action itself.

The only trouble is that it's very hard for an outsider — and probably even harder for someone on the spot — to decide what is retaliation for what and which came first.

Trade Increase on Great Lakes

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post for Nov. 8, 1866.

Sixty years ago (1810), there was scarcely a craft on these waters larger than an Indian canoe. Now the tonnage of side-wheel steamers alone is 100,600 tons.

In 1841, the gross amount of the lake trade, independent of the property constantly changing hands, cost of vessels and profit of passenger roads amounted to $65,000,000. In 1851 it had increased to $300,000,00, and by 1864 to $550,000,000.

At the present rate of increase, the lake commerce in 1871 will amount to the enormous sum of $1,000,000,000.

In 1859 the Northwestern lakes were navigated by 1,600 vessels, whose aggregate burthen was 400,000 tons! They were manned by 13,000 seamen navigating over 5,000 miles of lake and river coast, and transporting over $600,000,000 of exports and imports.

25 YEARS AGO

Labor's Role in Elections Changing; No Longer Tied Only to Democrats

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — One of the sensitive barometers of national political trends is the role of labor in election campaigns. And this year, labor's role reflects a development that underlies the rise of what I have called generational politics.

Kraft

That development is the steady waning of the general economic outlook as the critical element in determining political affinities.

Beginning sometime in the 1930s, organized labor staking a claim to speak politically for the working man. The unions not only took stands on particular issues of interest in labor-management relations. They also undertook to articulate a broad economic and social program, and to support candidates and parties embracing that program.

Roughly speaking, the program adopted by the unions was the program embodied by the Democratic Party in the New Deal, the Fair Deal, the New Frontier and the Great Society. As a result, labor came to turn its back on the precept of balancing between the two parties that was set down by Samuel Gompers. Instead, labor and the Democratic Party, with very few exceptions, were as one over the past 30 years.

The romance is by no means all over. But this year the significant feature of labor's role in politics is the volume, and the importance, of the exceptions to the old partnership with the Democrats.

NEW YORK

In the New York gubernatorial race, the AFL-CIO unions were too split to make any general endorsement. While Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers has supported the Democrat, Frank O'Connor, three major unions (Hospital Workers. Sanitation Workers and Building Trades) are backing Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

In the New Jersey senatorial campaign. the state AFL-CIO was also too split to come up with an endorsement. The CIO, or industrial wing of the movement, is for the first time endorsing the Republican incumbent, Sen. Clifford Case.

In the Oregon senatorial campaign, the combined AFL-CIO leadership endorsed Rep. Robert Duncan, the Democratic candidate. But two of the most important individual unions, the Teamsters and Longshoremen, are supporting Republican Gov. Mark Hatfield.

In Texas, despite heavy White House pressure, labor has refused to endorse the Democratic candidate for the Senate, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr. The refusal to endorse is a clear gain for the conservative Republican incumbent, Sen. John Tower.

Somewhat the same pattern applies in the Tennessee senatorial fight between Gov. Frank Clement, the Democrat, and the Republican candidate, Howard Baker. And in Kentucky the state AFL-CIO is not even backing a former teamster official who is running for Congress as a Democrat.

Various special reasons explain labor's departure from the Democratic fold in these states. Gov. Rockefeller helped the Sanitation Workers and Hospital Workers to win raises. By backing the New York World's Fair, he threw a big piece of change to the Building Trades Workers.

Sen. Case has won labor support in part because he has voted right (12 out of 12, by labor's measure of the last Congress). But even more important seems to be the hope that, with labor's endorsement, he will not campaign strongly against three freshmen Democratic congressmen the unions would like to see back in Washington.

OREGON

Mark Hatfield owes much of a bill that would have aided the craft over the industrial unions. In Texas and Tennessee, labor has been committed to Democratic leaders (Sen. Ralph Yarborough in Texas and retiring Sen. Ross Bass in Tennessee) who are bitterly at odds with the present Democratic candidates for Senate. In Kentucky, there is a personal feud between the teamster running for Congress and the state's union leadership.

But there is a common denominator in all these cases. In all cases labor is being swayed by narrow, short-term economic and political interests that are the reverse of philosophical. In all these cases. labor is withdrawing from the tactic of expressing a broad social outlook and of backing the party that embraces it.

That is another way of saying that Americans no longer see themselves as part of a labor bloc — not to mention a farm bloc or a business bloc. And the steady waning of the sense of identity with economic groups leaves more room for the ties that bind people in age groups — that is, generations.

Beer Too Near To Real Thing; Taken Off Market

MEMPHIS (AP) — "Jet Near Beer," said Shelby County William Morris, is too near the real stuff.

Morris ordered the product advertised as a "nonalcoholic brew," taken off the market after learning that it contained from .28 to .31 per cent alcohol. The real thing has a minimum of 3.2 per cent alcohol.

"It wasn't selling too great, anyhow," a distributor lamented.

Strange Reservations Being Expressed on Direct State Bonding

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Strange reservations from unexpected sources are being disclosed about the movement to amend the State Constitution to authorize unquestionably legitimate state bonding, one of the most important of the fiscal reforms suggested in this state in many years.

Wyngaard

As matters now stand, the legislature has given up approval to such an amendment. If the legislature of 1967 approves again, the issue will be put before the people in a referendum. If that amendment becomes law, it would mean the elimination of the "dummy corporations" invented to evade the present constitutional prohibition of debt. It would set up specific debt limits, impose direct control over all bond issues by the legislature, and generally democratize and possibly put on a more economical footing the management of a long term debt that realists know cannot be avoided.

The question is whether the amendment will be adopted. There is serious doubt about it. One of the reasons is that the institutional beneficiaries of the present system are content with what they have. They are not sure that any change won't be inconvenient for them with respect to the amount and purposes of their borrowing. Another reason is objection to big debt and an insufficient realization that the amendment question does not involve the question of having a debt, but only of managing it efficiently and democratically.

LEONARD OBJECTS

Yet another and possibly as formidable an obstacle is now being shown in the active resistance of leading members of the legislature, including those of conservative persuasion, to a reform that should appeal to them because it is essentially conservative.

It was exhibited most recently by the public statement of Sen. Jerris Leonard, the assistant majority leader of the State Senate, in which he indicated his own doubt that a vote by the legislature on individual long-term bond issues is preferable to the contracting of debt by the dummy corporations, creatures of the State Building Commission of which he is now a member.

He said:

"This seems logical enough on the surface, until you consider that this could lead to logrolling and the construction of state buildings in areas of the state where they are not needed, to assure the necessary majority of votes to approve the bond issue. Public works boondoggles on the federal level provide unpleasant precedents."

This is an astonishing declaration, indeed, from a man who has been in the forefront of the demand for more legislative responsibility in the conduct of the state government. It is a suggestive characterization of the quality of the men he is serving as one of the Senate's majority causus leaders. Logrolling in legislative parlance is trading of votes. It is a felonious act by definition of state law, as Sen. Leonard, a successful lawyer, knows precisely.

If logrolling is such a familiar hazard in legislative politics, is the onlooker to suspect that it might be involved also in the selection of the few legislators who now run the Building Commission and have the control of multimillion dollar building budgets of borrowed money, including himself as president of the major dummy corporation?

Leonard's objection is not unique. Other members of the Building Commission, proud of their places and enjoying their power, are known to share his view in spite of the implicit lack of confidence in their rank and file colleagues it betrays. What they are saying is that a select few among the 133 legislators, men of their superior judgment and capacity, should have the control of the huge bond issues for which all the lawmakers are responsible. What they are not saying, but may be deducted, is that they fear their colleagues may be more conservative about borrowing, on the one hand, and that their prestige and powers as amateur financiers and builders will be reduced or erased altogether if the power for such decisions is returned to all of the men chosen to run the state.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

In historical perspective, we can see that the people who were said to be "ahead of their time in their thinking" were actually the only ones who understood their own time and what was needed to plan for the future; this is because only the man "ahead of his time" can grasp the present, while most of us think in terms a generation behind our times.

Even though we spend nearly $40 billion a year on our schools (which makes education our largest industry), we allocate less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of this sum for research to discover the best ways of teaching so many children, and then wonder why so much of our modern schooling is ineffectual.

President Issues Plea For Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, home from his historic mission to the Far East, has appealed for unity behind American policy in Viet Nam—for "where there is a deep division in a land, there is danger."

"Where there is unity in the land, there is strength," Johnson said in a homecoming speech Wednesday night at rainy Dulles International Airport.

Johnson was at the White House today, but not for long. He is expected to open a fast-paced, final round of campaigning Friday to urge the election of Democrats in next Tuesday's state and congressional balloting.

Johnson said America's task in Viet Nam is far from done, but he said Asians—the people closest to the arena of conflict—know that Communist aggression there must be defeated.

'Increased Efforts'

"They know that it is their duty to help the United States keep these fires from spreading," he said, "and that effort will be increased."

And he said: "Those of us who met at Manila know the road may be long and difficult. We know that each of us will make mistakes. But if our countrymen will stand with us—if we will try to travel this difficult road together, I think that we will come out well at the end as America always has."

One critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policies was on hand to greet the President. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., listened in the rain as Johnson reported: "It has been my hope and my prayer since I took leave of you that this journey and the meeting at Manila would help move things faster in the right directions. History will decide. No new treaties were made. No new commitments were offered.

'More Hopeful'

"But I can tell you now that I return much more confident and much more hopeful than when I left."

Johnson chatted with Fulbright before he left for the White House, but the President's waiting helicopter drowned out much of their conversation.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he wasn't sure just what Johnson had said. "Anyway, I think he was just trying to be pleasant."

Unmanned Capsule Lands Successfully As Part of Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The United States today fired the opening shot in its plan to develop a military man-in-space program by hurling an unmanned modified Gemini capsule over a scorching suborbital path Then the same Air Force rocket orbited four satellites, one carrying a batch of satellite decoys.

The launching of the Gemini craft over a 33-minute ballistic course was the first test of hardware to be used in the Manned Orbiting Laboratory program, which expects its first manned flight in 1969. Goal of the program is to determine what military duties man can perform in space.

The 16-story-tall Titan 3 rocket called a transtage, ignited and pitched down at an altitude of 127 miles to drill the Gemini back through the heat barrier of the atmosphere at 17,500 miles an hour.

'Romney for President' Gains Force

DETROIT (AP) — While Gov. George Romney refuses to look beyond next Tuesday's election — and discourages others from doing so — plans are afoot to start a drive for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination on his behalf, The Associated Press has learned

And Romney and his political advisers are awaiting the country's reaction to his expected victory before making any plans or taking any concrete steps, sources close to the governor say.

"We will have to wait and see the size of his win and the prominence of his position — the kind of call he gets from citizens and national party leaders before we do anything new," one source said.

The Romney for president clubs that collapsed when Romney refused to encourage them in 1964 are about to try again.

George A. Zimmerman, a Dallas manufacturer who organized and headed the group of dedicated amateurs two years ago, said in a telephone interview Wednesday that he "will make an announcement shortly."

He declined to say what the announcement would be or when it would be made.

The organization claimed chapters in 20 states.

While not ruling out the possibility of a 1968 presidential drive, sources close to the governor insist that Romney "is really doing what he keeps telling the press he's doing — concentrating on this year's election."

Observers expect Romney to take off running toward 1968 in his nationally televised interview on "Meet the Press," scheduled for the Sunday following the election.

His role in a December meeting of the National Governors' Conference at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., a Republican governors meeting on an undetermined date, and out-of-state speaking engagements will figure as part of his campaign, some observers say.

Border Incident Was Just Due To Johnson Visit, Officials Say

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Despite North Korean attacks in which 25 South Koreans and six Americans have been killed in the past two weeks, U.S. officers said today they do not think the Communists are building up to major hostilities along the armistice line between North and South Korea.

South Korean officials said they believe the ambush of an American patrol early Wednesday, in which six American soldiers and a South Korean were killed and a seventh American was wounded, was timed to embarrass the Seoul government during Johnson's visit.

The South Koreans pointed out that the attack eight hours before the President left for home was only the second serious incident in the American sector of the Korean front since the 1953 armistice.

Second Attack

A second North Korean attack in the closing hours of the President's visit, belatedly disclosed today, occurred three hours after the ambush and 40 miles to the east.

The South Korean army said infiltrators believed to be North Korean army regulars fired on a South Korean post. The South Koreans returned the fire, killing one of the infiltrators, and pursued the attackers. In the chase, a South Korean mine was exploded, killing two South Korean captains, and a South Ko-

Deaths Boost Two-Day Toll In State to 14

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a veteran firefighter—sobbing in recollection and grimacing in pain—described how 10 of his men were killed, disaster struck again

Four young Marines perished Wednesday fighting one of many brush fires kindled in low humidity and driven by seasonal searing desert winds. The blazes were scattered across a 100-mile swath of Southern California.

Tuesday, 10 U.S. Forest Service men — specialists in attacking the most vicious fires—died in another inferno.

An unexpected gust of wind caused both disasters.

Conservative Vs. Liberal

Byrnes, Kagen Allow A Choice

Post Crescent News Service

"Don't worry, John, you'll win two to one."

"Keep at it, Doc, you're gaining"

These two statements spoken by partisans in the campaign for congressmen for the 8th district exemplify the atmosphere of the coming election.

The John mentioned above is John W. Byrnes, veteran Republican, seeking his 12th term in the House. The Doc referred to is Dr. Marvin Kagen, Appleton physician, the Democrat seeking to end Byrnes' long stay in the nation's capital.

Byrnes, a fiscal conservative, and Dr. Kagen, a liberal, give the voters a real choice.

Although they differ on most issues, the most glaring divergence of views is that of the nation's fiscal status.

Loss of Needed Money

From the start, when he first announced his candidacy, Dr. Kagen has been preaching that Byrnes' conservatism has continually cost the district needed money. Byrnes—as he has advocated since almost his first day on Capitol Hill—has chastised the government, and Democrats in particular, for reckless spending.

Dr. Marvin S. Kagen

At the outset of the campaign, Dr. Kagen was given little chance of upsetting the veteran Green Bay lawmaker. He still is the darkhorse, but by months of intensive touring of the district has come on fast.

Byrnes, held in Washington until two weeks ago when the 89th Congress finally adjourned, has a full schedule from morning until night to make up for lost time

Ten days ago, this writer spent a full day with each candidate The day was chosen at random but neither could be considered "routine."

Heard It Before

The most notable difference in the atmosphere of the day was that Byrnes was "renewing" old acquaintances, while Dr. Kagen was making new ones.

The people Byrnes met that day had met him before. They had heard his scathing attacks on federal spending. They had heard him link his Democratic opponent with the administration and its faults. But they like it just the same.

During breakfast and again at lunch in a Marinette supper club, Byrnes probably didn't pick up a single vote — they were his to start with.

In the three short weeks he had prior to the election, Byrnes has appeared mainly before

Air Blows Against North Stepped Up

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American air blows against North Viet Nam surged upward Wednesday for the second straight day with the weather again clear over Communist targets, the U.S. Command said today.

No large-scale fighting was reported on the ground in South Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman also disclosed that a North Vietnamese gun battery exchanged fire with a U.S. destroyer running in international waters nine days ago The announcement said the American vessel was on routine patrol when fired upon.

In the air war, Navy, Marine and Air Force fliers pounded Communist surface-to-air missile sites, radar installations, communications links, storage and staging areas in the Communist North for a total of 165 missions, 10 short of the war's record.

Partial Clearing

A thick cloud cover and heavy overcast had obscured targets for several days before a partial clearing on Tuesday permitted 122 missions.

Air Force pilots reported a SAM site 33 miles northwest of Dong Hoi "appeared to be completely devastated" after day and night bombing. Three missiles were reported destroyed, while four launchers and other equipment in the area were destroyed or damaged.

Skyhawk jets from the carrier Constellation hit a North Vietnamese patrol boat support facility 70 miles southeast of Haiphong and damaged a defending gun position, a pier and storage buildings, pilots reported.

No Exchange

Pilots reported spotting three Communist jets northwest of Hanoi but said none approached closer than three miles and there was no exchange of fire.

The hardest ground fighting in the South was reported northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border, where units of the 196th U.S. Light Infantry said

Week-Old Cabinet Crisis

Erhard Would Quit if It Would Help, He Claims

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard today began looking for a majority in Parliament to support a new government but the task appeared almost hopeless as long as he stayed in office.

Beset by rising opposition in his own Christian Democratic party and a 1967 budget deficit of about $1 billion, Erhard said Wednesday he would quit if necessary to resolve West Germany's week-old cabinet crisis.

Erhard was thought to consider Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder the man most likely to carry on his pro-American policies as his successor. But a strong group of Christian Democratic leaders, led by former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, favors closer relations with French President Charles de Gaulle. One of the group is former Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss, 51, who is believed almost certain to return to an important cabinet post.

Party Maneuvering

Erhard reports Tuesday to his party's members in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament. Until then, leaders of the Christian Democrats, Socialists and Free Democrats will be maneuvering for positions in the new cabinet.

Erhard met with Christian Democratic leaders for three hours Wednesday and with the party's caucus for an hour and a half.

Although he had previously insisted that he would stay on as chancellor, he said he would not allow moves toward a new government to founder "because of my person." But he said he wants, as party chairman, a full part in negotiations to determine the new government and its policies.
